DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH.

REPORT FOR WEEK ENDING SEPTEMBER 27, 1913.

NEW PLAN OF ADMISSION TO THE OTISVILLE SANATORIUM.

Although the Otisville Sanatorium of the Department of Health of The City of New York, for early cases of pulmonary tuberculosis, has now capacity for more than six hundred patients, the number of accepted applicants for admission is always so great that many have had to remain on the waiting list for a number of weeks. This condition is most undesirable.

It is well recognized that the sooner a patient is placed under actual sanatorium care, after the diagnosis is once established, the better are the chances for the arrest of the disease.

Patients have been discharged from Otisville as soon as their welfare permitted, in order to provide vacancies for new patients as rapidly as possible, and yet many accepted applicants have had to remain in town, under very unfavorable conditions, awaiting their turn for admission. Thus, frequently, weeks of valuable time were lost.

To relieve this situation, two new pavilions in the Riverside Sanatorium, located and built specially for the modern care of early pulmonary tuberculosis, have been set aside as Reception Pavilions for Otisville patients. Owing to inadequate provision of hospital facilities for the care of patients in advanced stages of the disease, many such patients necessarily have been received at Riverside Sanatorium. Thus, the impression has been formed that its wards were suitable for such patients only. This is erroneous, as the character of the new pavilions, the diet, and the marked improvement frequently observed in the physical condition of patients in the first and second stages, fully justifies the belief that prospective Otisville patients will be benefited in beginning their Sanatorium regime there.

Hereafter, all patients (except young children), who are accepted for the Otisville Sanatorium, will be admitted directly to the Reception Pavilions in the Riverside Sanatorium. In this way they begin to receive the advantages of a sanatorium at the earliest possible moment, and the hazardous waiting period is avoided or reduced to a minimum.

From these Reception Pavilions in the Riverside Sanatorium, suitable patients will be transferred to the Otisville Sanatorium as fast as vacancies occur in the latter institution. In this way, it is hoped that every accepted applicant can be admitted to sanatorium care without delay.

Vacancies at Otisville (except young children) will always be filled first from cases already under observation at the Riverside Sanatorium. They will be sent to Otisville direct on Thursday of each week, from the Reception Pavilions in the Riverside Sanatorium. Ample opportunity will be given to patients in the Reception Pavilions, when necessary, to visit their homes and arrange their affairs before their departure for Otisville.

TYPHOID FEVER IN SEPTEMBER.

The epidemic of typhoid fever from which the eastern and lower sections of the city have suffered since the early part of the month has apparently reached its maximum and its gradual decline may now be expected to take place. In relation to its causation and aspects, Commissioner Lederle issued on September 25 the following statement to the public:

"In order to emphasize to the citizens of New York the lesson involved in the present localized outbreak of typhoid fever and to correct possible misapprehensions and uncertainty arising from unauthorized statements which have been published in this connection, I wish to make public the following facts as to the recent cases and the action taken by the Department of Health.

"Until the beginning of the present outbreak, the record of typhoid fever in New York City, in 1912 and 1913, had been the lowest in the history of the city. On September 3, 1913, several unreported cases of typhoid fever in East 21st street, were discovered by Inspectors of the Department. Other foci of the disease developed in the middle eastern section of Manhattan below 40th street and also on the lower east side. Up to 5 p. m. Wednesday, September 24, 271 cases have been reported to the Department from the east side, between 40th street and the Battery. Following its usual methods, the special staff of the Department of Health which is assigned to the continuous observation of typhoid fever in New York, began a special investigation of these cases and in two days the evidence against certain milk supply in the class known as 'Grade B Raw' had become so strong, that the Department excluded from the City the milk from this particular source until it could be pasteurized. Since that date, September 5, no raw milk from the source suspected has been allowed to enter the City. The entire course of the subsequent investigation has tended to strengthen the suspicion that the cause of this outbreak was an infection transmitted through raw milk. In over 60 per cent. of the cases investigated to date the families are found to have been supplied with milk of the same company. It is considered that most of these cases which have been reported to date, were infected prior to September 5 although due allowance should be made for other cases which may have been infected by direct contact with patients who had contracted the disease previous to September 5 from the source suspected. Every possible precaution is being taken by the Department in accordance with established methods of administrative supervision to prevent the further spread of the disease. While

Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity.

The Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity makes the following report of its transactions for the week ending September 6, 1913:

Statement of collections, Bureau of Water Register, all boroughs, $65,711.46.

Contracts Entered Into—Dismantling, etc., engine at Baldwin, Long Island, and all danger from the original source was removed by the pasteurization of the milk beginning September 5, the Department is continuing its investigation in order to determine the ultimate source of the original infection hoping to find confirmation of the present hypothesis in some case or typhoid carrier in the region from which this particular milk supply was drawn. So far this investigation has not warranted a definite conclusion.

"The present outbreak serves as one more emphatic warning to the public of the risk that accompanies the drinking, in New York, of any raw milk except that in 'Grade A.' For the past four years the Department of Health has incessantly urged the necessity of pasteurization. By increasingly stringent regulations, the Board of Health has raised the proportion of pasteurized milk to the total supply, from about 7 per cent. in 1910 to over 50 per cent. at the present time. The main object of the grading system which the Department has put in force was to extend the scope of pasteurization with due consideration of economic conditions and the need of keeping the price of milk within the reach of the poor. This made necessary, at least, temporary provision for a class of raw milk in Grade B. The standard for this raw milk, however, was set much higher than that which was in vogue for the general milk supply, previous to 1910. It has been the definite purpose of the Board to bring about as rapidly as possible the pasteurization of all but a small fraction of the milk supply of New York City and to eliminate the class of raw milk in Grade B. If observations thus far made, with reference to the present outbreak, should be confirmed on subsequent investigations, sufficient evidence would then be provided to justify the Department in insisting at the earliest possible date on pasteurization of the class of milk now designated as 'Grade-B-Raw.' The adoption of such a requirement would mean that all milk sold in New York, excepting Grade A milk, would require to be pasteurized.

"In the meantime the advice to the public which the Department has given on so many occasions, is again repeated, and all citizens of New York should realize that the only way to be insured against disease transmitted through milk, is to use only Grade A milk, or milk which has been pasteurized, or brought to the boiling point."

DEATH RATE FOR WEEK ENDING SEPTEMBER 27, 1913.

There were 1,237 deaths and a rate of 12.01 per 1,000 population reported during the week just past, as against 1,194 deaths and a rate of 12.04 during the corresponding week of 1912, an increase of 43 deaths and a decrease of .03 of a point in the rate, which is equivalent to an actual decrease of 3 deaths, if the increase in population be taken into consideration.

The number of deaths from measles and scarlet fever was so small as to be almost negligible. There were 14 deaths reported from diphtheria, an increase of 2, and 11 deaths from whooping cough, an increase of 4 over the figures of last year. The typhoid fever mortality showed an increase from 7 deaths in the week ending September 28, 1912, to 14 deaths in the week just past. On the other hand, the Borough of Brooklyn showed a decrease from 12 deaths to 2 deaths, more than offsetting the increased mortality in the Borough of Manhattan. The number of deaths from this cause reported in the entire City during the week was 20 as against 22 in the corresponding week of last year. The mortality from the diarrhoeal diseases was considerably below that of last year, the deaths reported numbering 109 under five years of age as against 169, a decrease of 55 per cent. Organic heart diseases showed an increase of 33 deaths, pneumonia 26 deaths, Bright's disease and nephritis 18 deaths, pulmonary tuberculosis 6 deaths.

There were 10 fewer deaths reported of children under one year of age, and 22 fewer deaths of children between the ages of one and five years. To offset this decreased mortality there were 41 more deaths reported between the ages of five and sixty-five, and 34 more deaths at sixty-five years and over.

The causes showing increases were those found in adult and advanced life.

The death rate for the first thirty-nine weeks of the year 1913 was 14.15 per thousand as against 14.37 during the corresponding period of 1912, a decrease of .22 of a point.
