MUNICIPAL CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION.

Report for the Year Ending December 31, 1905.

Municipal Civil Service Commission,
No. 61 Elm Street,
New York City, January 1, 1906.

Hon. GEORGE B. MCCLELLAN, Mayor of The City of New York:

Sir—The Civil Service Commission of The City of New York herewith presents its report of the work performed during the year 1905. The personnel of the Commission was changed on February 1, 1905, by the resignation of Hon. Bird S. Coler as President and the appointment of Hon. William F. Baker as his successor. The only changes in the employees of the Commission were occasioned by the resignation of Mrs. D. A. Jones, Stenographer and Typewriter, and the appointment of Miss Katherine H. Newman, Stenographer and Typewriter; Mr. Joseph F. McDonald, Stenographer and Typewriter, and Miss Marie Kane, Junior Clerk.

Administrative Work.

In the competitive class 15,367 persons filed applications for examinations during the year 1905. There have been held 64 mental competitive examinations, in which 10,256 candidates competed; 65 mental non-competitive examinations, in which 155 candidates competed, and 122 mental promotion examinations, in which 2,019 candidates competed, and 1 examination for change of title, in which 1 candidate was examined—a total of 252 mental examinations, in which 12,431 candidates competed. During the year there were 57 physical examinations, in which 4,717 candidates competed, making a gross total of 309 examinations, in which there were 17,148 candidates. The foregoing figures apply only to the competitive class, as distinguished from the labor class. In the Labor Bureau there were filed 15,193 applications. 13,686 applicants were cited to appear for physical examination, of which number 3,919 failed to appear. The other 9,767 persons were examined. 172 candidates were cited to appear for trade examinations, of which number 149 persons appeared and were examined.

There are in the employ of The City of New York, under the jurisdiction of the Civil Service Commission, at the present time, 40,146 persons, who are divided into the following classes:

Classified Service.

Exempt class	699
Competitive class	21,016
Non-competitive class	1,813
Labor class	16,359
Unclassified service	259

These figures are exclusive of 11,000 employees in the Board of Education in various capacities.

The present competitive classification embraces 218 titles. For these positions there are 175 competitive and 204 promotion eligible lists in existence.

The most important questions, as affecting the establishment of new lists, arose in connection with the extension of the paid Fire Department into the boroughs of Queens and Richmond to take the place of the volunteer service; the lists made necessary by the creation of the new Board of Water Supply, and the taking over by the City of the Staten Island Ferry. In the case of the Volunteer Firemen, section 700 of the Laws of 1904 provided that all active Volunteer Firemen in the boroughs in which the paid fire service was to be extended were entitled to a non-competitive examination and preference for appointment in the respective localities in which they had served as volunteers. The Commission ruled that the non-competitive examination designated by the statutes meant a competitive examination confined to the persons who had been active members of the volunteer companies, and such an examination was held on December 19.

Upon the creation of the new Board of Water Supply the Commissioners of said Board presented to this Commission a request for the exemption of various positions, largely in the engineering service; but only such exemptions were allowed as seemed to the Commission to be made necessary by the importance of the work contemplated by the Board of Water Supply, and the difficulty, if not impossibility, of obtaining through competitive examination engineers with the experience and ability required by the Board for that work.

In regard to the Staten Island Ferry, Chapter 533 of the Laws of 1904 provided that practically the entire working force of the old Staten Island Ferry should become employees of The City of New York through the operation of the said Act after having passed a non-competitive examination by the Civil Service Commission. These examinations were held without any delay or inconvenience to the Department of Docks and Ferries, and the few positions that were not designated in the Act were filled by the Commissioner of Docks and Ferries from eligible lists then existing. The number of ferry employees who were thus taken into the City service was 129.

The largest single examination ever held in the history of the civil service in this City was conducted on June 1 and 28, when 2,295 candidates for the position of Patrolman in the Police Department were examined. 6,191 persons filed applications for examinations, but of this number only 2,383 succeeded in passing the physical examination, and of that number who were notified for the mental test, 2,295 appeared. 1,171 persons succeeded in obtaining a place upon the eligible list.

On August 9 an examination was held for Junior Clerk; 1,076 persons filed applications for the position, out of which number 826 persons were examined. On February 8, 1905, an examination was held for Examiner of Sewer Claims; 735 applications were filed, and 603 candidates were examined. On August 11, 1905, an examination was held for the position of Inspector of Incumbrances; 486 filed applications and 311 were examined. On August 31, 1905, an examination was held for the position of Office Boy; 341 applications were filed and 288 persons were examined. On September 20 an examination was held for Stationary Engineman; 401 applications were filed and 354 persons were examined. These are cited as the largest examinations out of a total of 64 mental competitive examinations held.

The two largest promotion examinations held were for Sergeant and Captain in the Police Department. In the former 270 candidates were examined and in the latter 400.

It will be very plain from the foregoing figures that the work of the Examining Board of the Commission is very heavy and continuous; while the amount of work performed by the clerical force of the office is indicated by the large number of applications, which must be examined before they are accepted; the enormous number of candidates notified as to the dates and the results of the examinations, the certification of names for appointment, and the constant supervision over the pay-rolls of the thousands of employees in the City service. In regard to the certification of pay-rolls alone, there were verified in this office during the past year as to appointment, grade and salary, the pay-rolls of 1,117,164 persons, an increase of 129,592 over the year 1904. The Commission has ever kept in mind the importance of conducting all examinations on a practical and common-sense basis and confining the questions as closely as possible to the duties of the positions to be filled.

The Commission submits herewith, as part of its report, the subjoined report of the Chief Examiner. The recommendations therein contained have been the subject of much thought and discussion by the Commission. The importance of the Examining Board of this Department cannot, of course, be over-estimated, as the integrity of the entire scheme of civil service depends to a very large extent upon the ability and character of its members.

Transfers and Appeals.

On the questions of appeals for reratings and transfers from one position to another in the City service, the Commission feels that a very decided step in advance has been made, and one which tends to a strict observance, not only of the letter, but the spirit of the Civil Service Law. During the year past no transfers from title to another have been allowed unless the name of the person desiring transfer stood amongst the first three on the eligible list existing for the position to which transfer was sought, or, in other words, was in a position which would entitle him to original appointment.

On December 23, 1904, the Commission passed a resolution amending the rules then existing in regard to appeals from the ratings of the Examiners by unsuccessful candidates who failed to obtain a place upon the list, or candidates who, having obtained a place upon the list, believed that they should have been rated higher. The Commission considered then that the lax enforcement of the existing rule governing appeals led to what was undoubtedly the greatest abuse that had crept into the administration of the Civil Service Law in this City. The change made was in substance a requirement that before any appeal could be considered by the Commission it would be necessary for the candidate to point out some manifest error or mistake of marking on the part of the Examiners. This change in the rules was approved by your Honor and by the State Civil Service Commission, and went into operation on March 17, 1905. The practical working out of the amendment can best be illustrated by the fact that in the year 1903 4,368 appeals were received by the then Commission, of which 2,199 were granted; that in 1904 3,319 appeals were received and 1,164 were granted (of the foregoing number 2,166 appeals were received and 697 were granted before the present Commission was appointed to office); that in 1905 1,074 appeals were received, out of which only 75 were granted, less than 7 per cent. of the whole. Furthermore, the general knowledge amongst the candidates for positions in the City service of the operation of this new rule has greatly diminished the number of appeals now received by the Commission. The result has been the practical elimination of unfair discrimination which was possible under former conditions, where a review and rerating were given a candidate after his identity had become known.

The Labor Bureau.

The work of the Labor Bureau has been constantly increasing since its establishment in 1895. During the past year there were filed 15,193 applications. There are now 63 titles in the labor class, involving the preparation and maintenance of 185 eligible lists, covering the boroughs of Manhattan, The Bronx, Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond and the Counties of Westchester, Putnam, Dutchess, Ulster and Nassau. Of the above number an additional technical examination is held either at the New York Trade School in Manhattan or Pratt Institute in Brooklyn for thirty different positions requiring trade knowledge. The Commission has eliminated in these trade examinations all theoretical questions and the tests applied are entirely and exclusively practical. The work of the Bureau was largely increased by the work of the municipal ferry and the creation of the new Board of Water Supply, which latter department made it necessary to hold examinations at various points throughout the State in order to provide laborers and mechanics for employment by that Board along the proposed line of water supply in the upper part of the State.

During the year a card index system has been completed, in which is given the entire record of all persons employed in the labor class, numbering upwards of 20,000, and in addition to these all who were so employed since January, 1898. This system covers about 50,000 names. By means of this card system, many cases of impersonation have been brought to our attention. Two hundred of such cases have been investigated by the labor bureau, and fifty were found to be irregular and the offenders were stricken from the rolls. We believe that substitution and impersonation, not only in the competitive class, but in the labor class, have been rendered practically impossible by this card system and the additional requirement of what is known as a "declaration sheet," which we now require to be furnished by the candidates. This declaration sheet is a statement which must be filled out and signed by the candidate at the time of his appointment, transfer or reinstatement in the presence of the appointing officer or his representative, and which contains his name, place and date of birth, the names of vouchers and former employers, as given on his original application blank. We have found the comparison of the handwriting and the facts set forth in both papers a very satisfactory test of whether there has been any substitution. The system of technical examinations in the trade schools has been generally approved by the applicants for mechanical positions, and has resulted in securing the best possible material for the service of the City. The standard of physical examination required for the labor class has been considerably raised, and The City of New York, under the present conduct of the Labor Bureau, is sure of securing common and skilled laborers who are eminently fitted in every way for these positions.

The Commission strongly urges the pressing need of better quarters and offices. The present offices and examination rooms are entirely unfitted for the work. The physical examinations are now conducted in the basement of the Criminal Court Building, in a small, badly ventilated and poorly lighted room. Artificial light is necessary at all times, and as affecting the eyesight test alone is a very serious defect in the proper conduct of such an examination. In the Police and Fire Department examinations held during the past year, as many as two hundred candidates have been examined in one day. This meant that they were herded together like so many sheep, and the examining physicians and employees have been absolutely unable to work more than half a day at a time on this work, owing to the distressing conditions which are due to the improper quarters provided. The administrative offices of the Commission are located in a building designed and intended primarily as a loft and printing office. There is not even plaster on the walls of the Commissioners' office. There has been expended in the past two years for rental of the Grand Central Palace, where the larger examinations are held, the sum of $2,620. If the Commission were afforded proper offices, the two floors now occupied by it could be utilized for examination rooms exclusively, one floor for the physical examinations, where the necessary paraphernalia could be properly constructed and where the necessary light and air would be present. Both floors could be provided with sufficient desks to accommodate the largest examinations, and the saving of the amount now paid for the rental of the Grand Central Palace could be expended for new administrative offices. Candidates are continually complaining, especially in the examinations held outside of the office, of the present absurd desk accommodations. Men are compelled to be seated for an entire day at desks which are shaky and insecure, and not large enough to accommodate a small school boy in comfort.

Conclusion.

The Commission is of the opinion that the public generally has come to a better appreciation of the Civil Service Law and its exactions than has ever before existed. The merit system has ceased to be a theory, and is now an actuality, not only in The City of New York, but practically in every State in the Union. The difficulty which confronts a civil service commission in the enforcement of the law is the constant endeavor of all political parties, from whose ranks, in the natural order of things, candidates for public positions are very largely recruited, to reward by appointment or promotion their earnest workers. Many schools of instruction have been established by the political parties at which young men seeking to enter the civil service are made acquainted with the method of conducting civil service examinations, and an intelligent effort is apparently being made throughout the city to bring about a realization of the fact that the proper road to advancement or promotion in the civil service is not through political influence, but is to be effected by intelligent study and conscientious effort directed towards the particular examination for the position sought. The importance of keeping the public generally informed as to the matters pertaining to the civil service is indicated by the fact that practically all the leading newspapers of the city devote a column daily to giving information in regard to impending examinations and vacancies existing or to be created. The Commission has found that the candidates in its examinations are recruited from the most intelligent and trustworthy part of our population. The endeavor of any commission should be to raise the standard of the civil service to a point that would encourage the best among the young men and women of The City of New York to direct their ambitions to obtaining permanent positions in its service. Under the existing laws, tenure of office depends upon the faithful performance of duty. The general compensation paid by the City is as good if not better than that afforded in private or corporate business. The standard of excellence to be maintained at present and secured in the future depends to a very large extent upon the manner in which the Civil Service Law is enforced. No one appreciates the defects in that law better than the various commissions in the State which are charged with its enforcement, and a large field is open to any succeeding Commission in The City of New York in bringing about certain amendments of the law and of the existing rules that will tend to effect the enforcement of the letter and spirit of the law in a practical manner, with one object in view, and that the obtaining for the taxpayers of the City the best return in efficiency, capacity and faithfulness on the part of its public employees.

Respectfully,
WM. F. BAKER,
R. ROSS APPLETON,
ALFRED J. TALLEY,
Commissioners.

Report of the Chief Examiner.

New York, December 31, 1905.

The Municipal Civil Service Commission, City of New York:

Gentlemen—I have the honor to present to the Commission a report of the work of the Examining Department for the year 1905.

It will be seen from the statistics submitted herewith that the year has been one of steady work, covering the usual wide range of positions. The establishment of the new Board of Water Supply necessitated some special examinations for engineering positions to be filled by men who are to do their work outside of the city. These examinations, in addition to their normal work, which is generally heavy, have thrown an immense amount of work on the Civil Engineers who have charge of these matters. The papers, being of a highly technical character, cannot be rated as rapidly as most others and require a great deal of care and thought. It should be said that the gentlemen concerned have done their work with what has seemed to me remarkable expedition, and if the publication of the eligible lists of engineering positions has sometimes seemed to lag, it is due solely to the immense volume of work. In October and November alone 1,977 candidates for these positions presented themselves.

In the more miscellaneous positions, I believe that the Examiners have kept fairly abreast of their work. Of course, when 1,429 candidates for Patrolmen are examined on one day it takes time to get out the list. But the charges of unnecessary delay which have been uttered in some quarters—in some, too, where more accuracy of information might have been expected—are wholly unfounded.

One feature of the large examinations during the past year or two which has puzzled me a good deal is the remarkably large and the equally remarkable uncertain percentage of applicants who fail to appear at the examinations. Thus, at the examination for Topographical Draughtsman (January 10), out of 176 applicants more than 23 per cent. were absent; Examiner of Sewer Claims (February 8), of 734 applicants more than 18 per cent. were absent; Measurer (May 26), of 213 applicants more than 13 per cent.; Inspector of Lighting and Ventilation (July 20), of 211 candidates, more than 28 per cent.; Junior Clerk (August 9), of 1,063 applicants more than 22 per cent.; Inspector of Incumbrances (August 11), of 485 applicants nearly 36 per cent.; Office Boy (August 31), of 329 applicants more than 12 per cent.; Axeman (November 3), of 1,047 applicants more than 31 per cent. It is to be noted that all these applications were fresh ones, none of them, I believe, more than a month old. It is difficult to account for this phenomenon except upon the theory that some men form the application "habit," and do not take the trouble of finding out what they are likely to be confronted with until they have already filed their applications. If the puzzle were the only thing it might be left to the psychologist without further concern. But there are some practical considerations to be taken into account, mainly, useless expenditure of money and time. One item is the waste of postage and stationery. A more serious one is the unnecessarily increased expense of holding the examinations. In spite of the belief that there would be an undeterminable percentage of absentees, or perhaps because that percentage was undeterminable, I have felt it safer to provide supplies enough for the total number of applicants, and have seldom felt it safe not to supply accommodations for that number. On the latter point I have sometimes taken chances, happily without disaster so far. But it will be seen that this involves a considerable waste of money. On one occasion I thought it necessary to engage the large room at the Grand Central Palace, at a cost of $100. It turned out that a smaller room at half the price would have been large enough. So, too, though I generally, or always, make an allowance for absentees in fixing the number of monitors to be employed, that allowance has usually been too small, and we have had more monitors on hand than were needed. This is a double disadvantage—first, waste of money; secondly, the unfortunate fact that when there is an excess of monitors, there is a tendency to laxness of supervision and to a decrease in the feeling of responsibility on the part of the monitors.

There is, I think, a remedy, if the Commission is of the opinion that the time has arrived to employ it. Some years ago, in speaking of another evil—the practice of certain persons who entered for nearly every examination scheduled without reference to their own training and qualifications or the requirements of the position—I said that it could be checked by exacting a fee from every applicant. I said, at the same time, that I did not then think that the time had come to apply that remedy. That particular evil has, I believe, sensibly diminished. But the same remedy would certainly abate the present evil, and the fact that it has been recently recommended to the National Civil Service Commission by their Chief Examiner prompts me to commend it to your serious attention. Even if only a nominal fee—25, 50 cents or a dollar—were charged, we should pretty certainly know beforehand what to prepare for, and another, and perhaps more valuable, result would be secured. We should be spared to a great extent the time and trouble involved in examining the papers of men who have no more business in the examination than a mute in a chorus.

I ask permission to refer, in some detail, to a particular class of examinations, and if in so doing, I seem to be telling the Commission what they already know, I trust I may be pardoned, as my desire is to present plainly some facts about which there is a vast amount of misunderstanding and misinformation prevalent and as to which I think it is high time that there should be no further question. To do so may involve the statement of what are to us in the office common places, but which to outsiders may be little short of revelations. I refer to the examinations held for the Police and Fire Departments, and particularly to examinations for promotion in those Departments. It is an almost desperate undertaking to try to eradicate from the minds of the members of those forces and from the mind of the public, the idea that money plays the strongest hand in these examinations; that it is always possible to obtain beforehand the questions that are to be put; that some Clerk or Office Boy or Examiner can be "reached." It is not because I believe that the Examiners need any defence that I am about to explain the method employed in these examinations. My endeavor is to see whether we may not finally destroy the tradition of which I have spoken, not merely in the Fire and Police Departments nor even in the mind of the public at large, but in another quarter where the tradition is sedulously fostered and kept active because of its pecuniary value. I mean the swindlers who thrive upon the theory that our examination papers can be bought and sold. If we can divert the industry of these gentlemen to other channels, we shall have done something toward increasing the self respect of the rank and file.

In examinations for promotion I have sometime adopted this method. As soon as the date for the examination was fixed—usually some weeks before the day of examination—I have called upon the proper Examiners, usually from four to six in number, to prepare a full set of questions on each subject of the examination. These questions, when presented to me, I have sealed up, double locked in my safe and kept unopened until the day before the examination. The day before the examination I have withdrawn myself altogether from the interruptions of the office and have, from these different sets of questions, selected such as I thought desirable, taking pains that where possible not more than one, or at most, two questions should be selected from any one set submitted, and I have made such additions or subtractions as I thought fit. Having made this selection, I took the papers home with me and locked them up over night. On the morning of the examination the selected papers are taken to the place of examination—Grand Central Palace, or our own office, as the case may be—are given to the Typewriter and the Neostyle Operator for printing. It follows that if any copy of the papers can get to the candidates before they are entitled to them, the Chief Examiner is solely responsible, and this responsibility, since it must rest somewhere, the Chief Examiner assumes unhesitatingly.

As a matter of record, the examination for Sergeant of Police held in September may be spoken of, particularly as it was completely misrepresented in the newspapers at the time. In this instance the procedure was as above stated, with the exception that the selection of the questions was not made by the Chief Examiner. On the morning of the examination—and somewhat early in the morning—the Commission, the Chief Examiner and the Assistant Chief Examiner met, by arrangement, at the Grand Central Palace and prepared the papers in the way above stated. The newspapers had it that the President appeared on the scene unexpectedly and canceled the questions which had been prepared and substituted a new set. This intimation of a want of harmony between the Commission and the examining body, which I am happy to believe does not exist, was unfortunate and not easy to bear with patience.

The Examining Board has been greatly and vexatiously hampered and retarded in rating promotion examinations by the persistent delay on the part of some of the Departments in furnishing it with the efficiency records required by the rules to be filed in this office semi-annually. The larger my experience the stronger is my conviction that there is but one course to pursue if we are to substitute for our present unsystematic and disheartening method a clear, business-like, intelligible practice. I would confine promotion examinations—except in the uniformed forces—rigidly to the month or two months next following the stated dates for filing the efficiency records, viz.: April 1 and October 1 of each year; I would refuse to hold promotion examinations for any Department which had not complied with the rule, and I would refuse, except for the most urgent reasons, to hold examinations for promotion except from one grade to the next. My views are strengthened on this point by the fact that I have before me as I write a most discouraging batch of year-end requests and orders for promotion examinations which it has taken nearly a day to tabulate and will take another day, perhaps, to arrange for. To do even the preparatory work with any regard for thoroughness needs time and careful consideration, and I am in constant demand on the telephone or by letter to hasten this or that examination, because of some special interest involved. Meanwhile, our December calendar has been cluttered with these odds and ends of promotions, and the candidates, and those interested in them, cannot understand why I refuse to take them up out of order, or to lay aside examinations which must have precedence under the rules only that some increase in salary may be secured before the year dies.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) F. G. IRELAND, Chief Examiner.

BOARD OF EXAMINERS.

Board of Examiners, }
March 13, 1906.

Present—Messrs. Warren A. Conover, Charles Buek, Lewis Harding, Charles G. Smith, Edward F. Croker, Henry R. Marshall and William J. Fryer, Chairman.

Meeting called to order at 2 p. m.

On motion, minutes approved as read.

Appeal 6—Fire Shutter Case No. 1 of 1906, premises No. 85 Clinton street, Brooklyn; the Brooklyn Heights Railroad Company, appellant.

(Referred to Chief Croker for examination and report with recommendation.)

Laid over for one week.

Appeal 11—Alteration of 1906, premises, Cropsey avenue, 65 feet northeast from corner Bay Thirty-third street, Brooklyn; E. G. W. Dietrich, appellant.

Does not comply with section 105 of Code.

The above-named section, i. e., 105, can hardly be applied to this particular building, in so much as it is isolated and has been carefully built and was originally intended to be occupied as a family hotel, and is semi-fireproof, all the floors are deafened with cinders, and the new story is cut off by the present roof covering with a heavy Portland cement concrete roof about 6 inches thick.

The corridor walls are brick from basement floor to underside of roof, and the floors of corridors are 8-inch steel "I" beams, 5 feet apart, with brick arches between and covered with tile for finished floor.

The stairway is iron from basement to the roof.

Section 105 of Code.

The only reason for denial of the permit by the Superintendent of Buildings is that it does not comply with section 105 of Code. Owing to the favorable situation of the building, and the management of the sanitarium will be under the immediate charge of the owners of the building, the appellant has every reason that the greatest care will be exercised in looking after the safety of the same, guarding against all manner of danger whatsoever.

Mr. Dietrich and Dr. Mavn appeared before the Board.

On motion, laid over for one week.

Appeal 12—New Building 138 of 1906, premises, southeast corner of East Fifty-seventh street and Park avenue, Manhattan; Charles A. Rich, appellant.

No. 5. Building exceeds twelve stories in height and should be made to conform to all the requirements of section 105 of the Building Code in regard to the fireproofing of buildings exceeding twelve stories in height.

While building is over twelve stories in height the building is within the 150-foot limit.

Construction of Pent House.

1. All walls surrounding the pent house will be carried up to their proper height.
2. Floor will be made of cement.
3. Wire glass will be used wherever glass is necessary.
4. Proper skylights will be provided.
5. All woodwork for the window frames, sash, doors, trim and base of pent house will be thoroughly fireproof.
6. All woodwork entering into the construction of the pent house will be fireproof by the process which is fully accepted and approved by the Bureau of Buildings.
7. The entire pent house will be constructed entirely fireproof.
8. Stand pipe with hose connection and outlet in the hall of the pent house be provided.

Mr. Rich appeared before the Board.

On motion, laid over for one week, pending filing of new plan.

Appeal 13—Alteration 425 of 1906, premises No. 117 McDougal street, Brooklyn; William Gluckman, appellant.

On the ground that section 142 of the Building Code requires that a frame building in the fire limits must be at least 25 feet high and two story, attic and basement, in order that it can be permitted to be extended either front or rear.

The present building is nearly 28 feet high, viz., 24 feet, and that section 142 does not specify that a two-story frame building cannot have a frame extension built either front or rear.

That he be allowed to build a frame extension on the rear of the present building.

That section 142 of the Building Code does not apply.

Appellant not appearing.

On motion, laid over for one week.

Adjourned.

THOMAS F. DONOHUE, Clerk.

Each bid or estimate shall be accompanied by the consent, in writing, of two householders or freeholders in The City of New York, or of a guaranty or surety company duly authorized by law to act as surety, and shall contain the matters set forth in the blank forms mentioned below.

No bid or estimate will be considered unless, as a condition precedent to the reception or consideration of any proposal, it be accompanied by a certified check upon one of the State or National banks of The City of New York, drawn to the order of the Comptroller, or money to the amount of five per centum of the amount of the bond required, as provided in section 430 of the Greater New York Charter.

The certified check or money should not be inclosed in the envelope containing the bid or estimate, but should be either inclosed in a separate envelope addressed to the head of the Department, President or Board, or submitted personally upon the presentation of the bid or estimate.

For particulars as to the quantity and quality of the supplies, or the nature and extent of the work, reference must be made to the specifications, schedules, plans, etc., on file in the said office of the President, Board or Department.

No bid shall be accepted from or contract awarded to any person who is in arrears to The City of New York upon debt or contract, or who is a defaulter, as surety or otherwise, upon any obligation to the City.

The contract must be bid for separately. The right is reserved in each case to reject all bids or estimates if it is deemed to be for the interest of the City so to do.

Bidders will write out the amount of their bids or estimates in addition to inserting the same in figures.

Bidders are requested to make their bids or estimates upon the blank forms prepared and furnished by the City, a copy of which, with the proper envelope in which to inclose the bid, together with a copy of the contract, including the specifications, is in the form approved by the Corporation Counsel, can be obtained upon application therefor at the office of the Department for which the work is to be done. Plans and drawings of construction work may also be seen there.
