August 2006

Dear Friends:

I am pleased to present the 2006-2007 Register of Foreign Consulates and Associated Government Offices in New York - the "Red Book."

Through the New York City Commission for the United Nations, Consular Corps and Protocol we provide guidance, support and assistance to the consular offices. The "Red Book" is a resource for government agencies, businesses, and all New Yorkers as well as the consular community.

Our city draws its cultural vitality from the diversity of its population that enriches our many communities and bolsters our City's status as the World's Second Home. We are proud of the many positive relationships New York enjoys with cities and nations around the world and look forward to strengthening those bonds alongside the consular community.

Sincerely,

August 2006

Dear Friends:

New York City is proud to host 105 consulates - the largest consular community in the world. In promoting trade, tourism, and investment, the consulates make a significant contribution to the City's vibrant international culture. They are a big reason so many call New York "the capital of the world."

Since 1962, the Commission for the United Nations, Consular Corps and Protocol has served the diplomatic community as the City's official liaison to the Consular Corps.

The Register of Foreign Consulates and Associated Government Offices in New York is widely used by businesses, individuals, and government agencies as a directory of the Consular Corps.

We are pleased to offer you the updated 2006-2007 version of this important directory.

Sincerely,

Marjorie B. Tiven
Commissioner
