Whereas, The triumph of the Columbia College four, the representatives of American college oarsman at the international regatta at Henley-on-the-Thames, London, on the memorable 4th and 5th days of July, 1878, redounds so directly and justly to the glory of our common country, that the governments and people of every section thereof should manifest their appreciation of the glorious victory there won by the most enthusiastic demonstrations of commendation and praise of the gallant four—Jasper T. Goodwin, Henry G. Risabeck, Cyrus Edson, and Edwin Sage—who so manfully upheld the honor of their native land, on the anniversary of its natal day, at the capital of the nation from whom, a century ago, we won our political independence, and who, until this great victory of Columbia College, claimed to be our superiors in manly sports and athletic games, particulary as oarsmen: and oarsmen; and Whereas, This brilliant achievement of a distinctively American college rowing crew, following so closely upon the victories of our American riflemen, and the admitted superiority of American yachtmen, proves conclusively that the men of this young republic have not deteriorated morally, mentally or physically, the assertions of the enemies of free government to the contrary notwithstanding, but proves, on the contrary, and most conclusively, that they are more than the equals of the best men in the old world, and that the glories of our free institutions is bearing its legitimate fruit—ambition, self-reliance, energy, and determination to succeed—being the chief characteristics of our countryment, and best men in the old world, and that the glories of our free institutions is bearing its legitimate fruit—ambition, self-reliance, energy, and determination to succeed—being the chief characteristics of our countrymen; and

Whereas, The "Columbia Crew," being also distinctively the crew of a New York City rowing club, imposes upon the people and government of this city the duty of recognizing in an especial and particular manner the renown they have reflected upon the City of New York in winning the "Visitors' Cup," by defeating the crews of the Oxford and Cambridge Colleges, in the ever-memorable rowing race at Henley-on-the-Thames, in the city of London, on the 4th and 5th days of July, 1878; be it therefore

Resolved, That a special committee of five members of this Board, of whom the President shall be one, be appointed to receive the crew of the Columbia College Rowing Club on their arrival in this city, to welcome them home; to tender them the congratulations of the people and government of the City of New York upon their brilliant victories on the Thames, and to extend to them the use of the Governor's room in the City Hall, on any day that may best suit the convenience of the members of the crew, to receive personally the felicitations of their friends and our citizens generally; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this preamble and these resolutions be engrossed and framed, duly authenticated by the signatures of his Honor the Mayor and the President of the Board of Aldermen, the corporate seal affixed and attested by the Clerk of the Common Council, and presented to the President and Faculty of Columbia College, to be retained in the institution as a slight token of the appreciation of the people of the City of New York of the brilliant achievements of the Columbia College Crew of 1878 in defeating their competitors, the crews of Oxford and Cambridge Colleges, at the international rowing regatta, at the capital of the British empire, July 4 and 5, 1878.
