DOB Drone Report Lands in NYC

A new DOB report seeks to take building safety to new heights, by exploring the potential use of drones for building façade inspections.

This comprehensive agency report provides a deep dive into the regulatory landscape affecting unmanned aircraft systems use in New York City, the use of drones in other jurisdictions, and how drones can potentially be used to aid in safety inspections throughout the five boroughs

"It is imperative that we continue to embrace the latest technologies and innovations in support of our mission to protect our fellow New Yorkers," said Commissioner Melanie E. La Rocca. "Our report is the product of intensive research by DOB experts, and finds that when combined with traditional hands-on examinations, the effective use of drones could potentially result in more comprehensive building inspections, resulting in reduced inefficiencies and a safer New York City."

New Inspection Requirements for Parking Structures

At the beginning of next year, owners of parking structures in New York City will be required to hire a state licensed and registered professional engineer to inspect their structures at least once every six years, and file a report with the Department of Buildings documenting the results of the inspection.

The first inspection cycle is anticipated to start January 1st, 2022, and end December 31, 2023. Owners of parking structures located within Community Districts 1 through 7 in Manhattan will be required to have parking structures inspected and file the required report with DOB.
