HEALTH DEPARTMENT OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK,
BUREAU OF VITAL STATISTICS,
NEW YORK, September 18, 1877.

W. DEF. DAY, M. D., Sanitary Superintendent and Register:

Sir—I have the honor to inform you that during the eight months ending August 31, 1877, 18,034 deaths occurred in this city. This mortality is divided into the following 5 classes: Zymotic diseases, 5,716; constitutional diseases, 3,892; local diseases, 6,676; developmental diseases, 1,051; and violence, 699. Compared with the corresponding months of 1876, these figures show a decrease in the total of 3,217 deaths, distributed as follows: Zymotic or preventable diseases, 1,838; constitutional diseases, 269; local diseases, 873; developmental diseases, 162; and deaths by violence, 75. The most noticeable decrease, however, was in the mortality from the zymotic or preventable class of diseases, and of children under 5 years of age.

During the past 8 months of the present year there were 8,673 deaths of children under 5 years of age, against 10,947 for the corresponding month of last year. This shows a very gratifying decrease in the infantile mortality of 2,274, and of 389 less deaths from diarrhoeal diseases. How much the timely advice and energetic measures put forth by the Board of Health have accomplished in reducing the deaths from the above causes, the figures in the accompanying tables will testify. It will be interestingly observed in the table of deaths by wards that the total death rate of the city, exclusive of those who died in the institutions, was 21.68 per 1,000, and that there were but two wards north of Fourteenth street—the Twentieth and Twenty-second—that furnished a higher death-rate, while the First, Second, Fourth, Sixth, Seventh, Eighth, Tenth, Thirteenth, and Fourteenth Wards—all south of Fourteenth street—were above the average. The First Ward, with an area of 154 acres and a population of 14,209 (census of 1875), furnished the highest death-rate, 32.51, and the Twenty-fourth Ward, with an area of 8,050,323 acres, and a population of 11,875, furnished the least, 17.31.

Deaths by Wards, from January 1 to September 1, 1877, inclusive.

The total deaths reported in institutions during this period was 2,979, in houses containing 3 families and less, including shanties, 5,095, and in tenement-houses, or houses containing 4 families and more, 9,471; showing a percentage of 16.53 in institutions, 28.27 in houses containing 3 families and less, and 52.56 in tenement-houses.

The excessive percentage of deaths in tenement-houses—a large majority of the inmates in the public institutions come from the tenement-houses, and consequently ought to be counted in this mortality—calls for some additional remedial sanitary legislation, and, in its absence, the recommendation of rapid transit with cheap fares between certain hours in the morning and evening to enable the working classes to obtain cheap and healthful homes in the upper section of the city, and relieve the over-crowded tenements of the lower districts, is a necessity that the health and moral condition of the people demand. In the quarter ending June 30 of this year, there were 5,986 deaths reported, of which 1,068 were in institutions, 1,754 in houses containing 3 families and less, and 2,993 in tenement-houses, and during the two months ending August 31, there were 5,970 deaths reported, of which 804 were in institutions, 1,664 in houses containing 3 families and less, and 3,375 in tenement-houses, showing the mortality for the two months to be but 16 below that of the total for the three preceding months, while the deaths in institutions were 264, and in houses containing 3 families and under, 90 less, but the deaths in tenement-houses showed the great increase of 382 more deaths in the months of July and August than occurred during the entire quarter ending June 30, and 272 more than in the quarter ending March 31, of the present year, although the mortality for these two months was 93 less than the total number reported for this quarter.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN T. NAGLE, M. D.,
Deputy Register of Records.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN T. NAGLE, M. D.,
Deputy Register of Records.SANITARY BUREAU,
NEW YORK, September 18, 1877.To the Board of Health of the Health Department,
EMMONS CLARK, Secretary :

In compliance with the following resolution passed by the Board of Health on the 4th instant :

"Resolved, That the Sanitary Superintendent be and is hereby directed to report on the general Sanitary condition of the city, and upon the work of the Sanitary Bureau during the present season."

—I beg leave to submit the following report :

The special work of the summer, so far as relates to the disinfection of street-gutters and privies, to the inspection of unripe and unwholesome fruits, and to the temporary visiting corps of physicians, detailed to hunt out the sick children of our poorer classes, has been discontinued for lack of funds. The temporary disinfecting corps, during their three months and a half of service, have disinfected 38,599 privies, 4,606 yards, 4,128 cellars, 3,151 garbage-boxes and 1,671 urinals. This means that the worst parts of the city have been gone over repeatedly, and not that so many separate yards, privies and cellars have been visited. The corps have also made memoranda of privies requiring emptying, and the regular Inspectors have made complaints in the usual way, whenever in their judgment, circumstances required it. The Sanitary districts are so large, and the Inspectors are so few that this co-operation has been necessary.

Owing to the small number of contagious diseases, I have been able to detail members of the permanent Disinfecting Corps to the service of the orders of the Board, which was formerly the duty of the Sanitary Police.

The inspection of fruit is divided into two classes. First—That of retail fruit-stores and groceries, stands and licensed vendors; and Second—Markets, Commission merchants, and vessels bringing fruit into the city. The following is a complete report of the amount of fruit condemned, and the number of places visited by the Special Corps of nine fruit Inspectors. It was difficult to tabulate their work, and the table does not represent the full value of their services. A wide distribution of circulars among fruit dealers prevented the importation of objectionable material in many cases. About the markets the service has been laborious, requiring the presence of the Inspectors late at night and at an early hour in the morning.

I have had no complaint brought to my notice during the summer of injustice, or bad judgment on their part. The inability of the Street Cleaning Department to receive and dispose of the condemned fruit, threatened at one time to be an embarrassment to us, from which we were relieved by the contractor for the removal of night-soil and dead animals.

The Special Corps of Visiting Physicians have, during their month of service, visited 23,566 houses, 131,573 families, treated 4,719 cases of sickness, and distributed 5,128 excursion tickets for the Floating Hospital of St. John's Guild.

The reluctance with which vaccination is received during the hot weather, allowed me to avail myself of the Vaccinating Corps to assist in this house to house inspection. The Board is familiar with the proper work of this Corps. That portion of the community who are especially liable to small-pox appreciate more and more the importance and feasibility of preventing it. Perhaps the substitution of bovine for humanized virus has contributed to remove prejudice against this most useful prophylaxis. This is more clearly shown by the fact that 42,942 vaccinations were performed during this period of eight months, when small-pox did not prevail.

Systematic work has now been resumed in the dangerous districts, and in the public schools.

The eight months of 1876, from January 1 to September 1, gave 800 cases of small-pox, as against 48 cases for the corresponding months of 1877.

The following is a comparative table, showing the cases of contagious disease reported at the Sanitary Bureau, for the first eight months of 1876 and 1877:

YEAR.	Typhus Fever.	Typhoid Fever.	Scarlet Fever.	Cerebro- Spinal Meningitis.	Measles.	Diphtheria.	Small-pox.
1876	7	301	1,506	100	1,517	2,572	855

The inspection of the milk offered for sale in the city has continued to engage the attention of this Bureau, and as much time has been given to it as was consistent with other and more pressing interests. Since the commencement of this service 173 persons have been arrested for selling watered or skimmed milk, of whom 164 have been convicted, and the fines collected have amounted to $8,720. This, when the difficulty of making a successful arrest is considered, the consumption of time in court necessary to a conviction, and the insignificant means at our disposal, is certainly no mean result.

Much information as to the means of detecting the sophistication of milk has been imparted to the press through the efforts of the Board and its officers, and thus has reached those most concerned in its prevention.

The following table shows the mortality from all causes during the eight months of 1876 and 1877, from January to August, inclusive:

The Board of Education having requested the Board of Health to inspect the public schools during the months of July and August, the Inspectors of this Bureau have made reports upon the sanitary condition of some seventy of them. These reports have not yet been condensed and arranged for presentation to the Board. Important questions regarding ventilation could not be satisfactorily investigated when the school-rooms were empty. Whenever gross sanitary defects were found complaints and recommendations were made, which I have had the honor to forward to your Board, by whom they have been referred to the Board of Education.

The number of citizens' complaints has reached the sum of over 4,000, being an actual increase of 62 per cent. over the same period for the year 1875, and in excess of those of any other year since the Board was organized. These complaints require care, skill and fairness on the part of the officer. This portion of the service has received prompt attention, although in some cases, owing to defective service of orders, or the absence of householders from the city, unavoidable delays have occurred.

The adoption of proper apparatus by the scavengers, and the other precautions thrown around this business by the Board, have reduced its offensiveness to the minimum. During the eight months just passed 3,793 permits have been granted to scavengers by this Bureau, and hardly a complaint has been received from citizens of annoyance.

The number of permits granted to consignees of vessels from foreign and domestic ports to discharge cargoes during the eight months was 2,359.

114 permits have also been granted to land rags, bonds for the careful delivery without breaking bulk of same having been filed at this Bureau by consignees.

293 miscellaneous permits have also been issued, this including permits for cattle-driving, for the conveying of fat and bones through the streets and avenues of the city, etc. These permits being issued subject to the requirements of the Sanitary Code.

The offensive trades have been constantly under observation of this Bureau, and many nuisances arising from them have been abated by orders of the Board. The entire industry of lard and fat-melting has been again the subject of special investigation, and proprietors have willingly provided themselves with the most approved apparatus for avoiding the creation of fatty odors. When these arise, as they are always due to carelessness, the owners have been held to a strict accountability, and in many cases their business has been discontinued until the Board was satisfied that the public health would not be jeopardized by its resumption.

The business of slaughtering has been removed from the smaller buildings, and concentrated into abattoirs on the east and west sides of the town, on the river front or near it. These buildings have been constructed with special reference to slaughtering, and are creditable to the city. They are easily cleansed, and are the subject of special inspection and written report at least once every week.

That portion of the city lying between Houston street and Seventieth street is at the mercy of stenches from Hunter's Point whenever easterly winds prevail. The Board having failed during the last two winters to procure the requisite authority from the Legislature for abating this nuisance, I have by its orders collected evidence bearing on this matter in order to bring the subject to the attention of the Grand Jury.

The necessity of disturbing the soil on the Harlem flats in the construction of the proper sewers gave rise to temporary annoyance to the occupants of houses south of Ninety-third street during the warm weather, to which discomfort the condition of the sewer at One Hundredth street and First avenue contributed. This sewer is being continued to One Hundred and Sixth street, and is expected to be completed by the first of November, effectually abating the nuisance created by the discharge of offensive materials on the low lands at One Hundredth street, east of First avenue.

The Police have been requested to prevent the deposit of manure and stable straw at all the old dumping grounds, and these grounds are being steadily cleaned. The whole subject of the handling of manure and stable straw is confessedly a very difficult one to manage. The location of the city, surrounded by other large cities, invests the question of the proper disposal of manure with peculiar difficulties. This subject, together with that of the separation of ashes from garbage, their collection, the final disposition of them, and the paving and cleaning of the streets is far from being satisfactorily settled.

As to the results of the ordinary work of the Inspectors in suppressing nuisances, in draining lands in the new district, in making sewer connections, filling and fencing surken lots, in recommending repairs to pavements, and in improving the general condition of their districts, their reports before me bear abundant evidence, but it is perhaps unnecessary in this report to go more into detail regarding them. Most of their work is done among the tenement-houses, and much attention has been given since the beginning of the year to the ventilation of their soil-pipes and privy-vaults, and to the condition of their drainage and plumbing generally. Many thousands of inspections in tenement-houses have been made during the year 1877, but these figures I reserve for the annual report.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

WALTER DE F. DAY, M. D., Sanitary Superintendent.

DEPARTMENT OF BUILDINGS.

[BOARD OF EXAMINERS.]

At a meeting of the Board of Examiners, held at the office of the Department of Buildings, at No. 2 Fourth avenue, on Tuesday, the 18th day of September, A. D. 1877, at 3 P. M., pursuant to call of the Superintendent of Buildings.

At which were present—W. W. Adams, Henry Dudley, J. Banta, E. Dobbs, and James M. McLean, Esqrs.

Superintendent W. W. Adams presiding.

Application granted.

Petition of J. H. Waterhouse, for permission to so far vary the provisions of the "Building Law" in the erection of his two buildings proposed to be erected on the east side of Avenue A, fifty feet south of southeast corner of One Hundred and Seventeenth street and Avenue A, as to permit the erection of the walls of the same above the line of the first story floors thereof (8) eight inches thick, to a height of forty-four feet above the curb level, as provided in Specifications and Plans No. 576 for Erection of Buildings, filed September 12, 1877.
