MESSAGE FROM HIS HONOR THE MAYOR.

The following message was received from his Honor the Mayor, announcing the death of the Hon. Azariah C. Flagg:

MAYOR'S OFFICE, NEW YORK, November 26, 1873.

To the Honorable the Board of Aldermen:

GENTLEMEN: It is with profound sorrow that I communicate to you officially the intelligence that Azariah C. Flagg died at his residence in this city on the evening of the 24th inst. At the close of next month it will be fifteen years since the public career of this eminent citizen was terminated. In that interval, totally bereft of eye-sight, but with an intellect clear and strong, and a spirit courageous and serene, he has lived in complete retirement, fulfilling some private trusts, and ever thoughtful of all public interests. At last, when a few days would have completed an age of eighty-three years, he has passed from among us. There are peculiarities in the public career and public character of Mr. Flagg which make it specially fit that the people of this State, and the people of this city, should pause a moment in their busy life to render a conspicuous homage to him while his mortal remains are passing to the tomb.

He was born in Orwell, in the State of Vermont, on the 28th day of November, 1790. In early youth he migrated to Plattsburg, in this State. He had an honorable share in the defence of that place against the British invasion in the war of 1812-15. He sought a frugal livelihood as editor and printer of the Plattsburg Republican, a Democratic newspaper. In November, 1822, he was elected by the county of Clinton to the Assembly. He served in that body with distinction during the sessions of 1823 and 1824. In February, 1826, he was elected Secretary of State by the Legislature, and he held that office until January, 1833, when he was elected Comptroller. He held the latter office until 1839. He was restored to it in 1842, and continued to hold it until the close of 1847. His official service consisted of two years in the Canal Board as Comptroller or Secretary of State, and his unofficial service was even more valuable during the three years, from 1839 to 1842. His career in State administration may be considered as comprising twenty-five years.

In this career of a quarter of a century in the administrations of the State, Mr. Flagg's merit and renown will be found, not in the catalogue of the great offices he held, but in the wise measures and honest policy he originated or maintained—in the ability, vigor and courage with which he sustained the right and confronted the wrong—and in the great fact that he invariably wielded official power and party leadership for the cause of good government—for purity in legislation and in administration; that he used these great influences—not for the purposes of individual ambition or personal gain, but exclusively and undeviatingly for the public good; that he contributed very largely to keep up and elevate the standard and the tone of official and political morals in both parties, and in the whole public, during this long period, in the greatest State in the Union.

Mr. Flagg was united with Martin Van Buren, whose organizing genius and masterly abilities created the association; with Silas Wright and William L. Marcy, also statesmen of the first class. They were all men of probity, frugality, and personal virtue, and they attracted to their side similar characters in all parts of the State. Mr. Flagg made the State finances his specialty, and surpassed all his associates in enterprise and courage, though he may not have equaled them in general attainments, and was often the most effective leader in this State.

In the six years from 1853 to 1859, Mr. Flagg served as Comptroller of this city, and although he did not attempt any political or party leadership, his career was distinguished by the fidelity and firmness with which he resisted all invasions of the municipal treasury, and his persistent and unwearied exertions in this service no doubt hastened the malady which, at nearly the allotted age of man, closed forever his vision upon the light of heaven.

It may be safely said that the history of this country affords no equal example of a life devoted for so long a period, with so much affirmative activity, and with so much ability and skill to the abstract cause of good government in the civil administration of the communities in which Providence had cast his lot.

At a period when the people everywhere are feeling how much they need such virtues and such services, we ought to signalize our appreciation of so remarkable an example, if only as an incentive to its imitations.

W. F. HAVEMEYER.

Whereupon Alderman Morris offered the following preamble and resolutions:

Whereas, The Common Council of the city of New York have learned with feelings of profound sorrow of the death of the Hon. Azariah C. Flagg, a statesman who has filled with high integrity and great ability many public positions connected with the State and city of New York. At an early period of his remarkable and honorable career he volunteered his services to his country, and served with credit and distinction till the close of the war of 1812. He was a member of the Legislature in 1823 and 1824, and served with such ability that he was appointed Secretary of State and Comptroller of the State, which offices he filled for a long term of years. The eminent ability and economy displayed by him in the management of the financial affairs of the State commended him to the favorable consideration of the people of this city, by whom he was elected Comptroller of the city of New York in 1852 and re-elected in 1855. The principles of economy practiced by him in the affairs of the State were continued in the affairs of the city and county of New York. His administration, though sharply criticised, stands in bright relief, a lasting monument of economy and integrity. This Common Council cannot lightly pass over the departure from our midst full of years and honor of one so well and favorably known to the people of the State.

Therefore, resolved, That we sincerely deplore the death of the Hon. Azariah C. Flagg, late Comptroller of the city of New York, and deeply sympathize with his bereaved family and friends in their affliction.

Resolved, That on the day set apart for his, obsequies the flags on the City Hall be placed at half staff, and that the Mayor, Common Council and the heads of Departments of the City Government be requested to pay respect to the remains of the honored dead by attending his funeral.

Resolved, That the foregoing preamble and resolution, with the message of his Honor the Mayor, be entered at length in the minutes, and as a further mark of respect, this Board does now adjourn.

Which was adopted. And the President announced that the Board stood adjourned until Thursday, the 4th prox., at 3 o'clock P. M.
