

New York City Food Policy: 2014 Food Metrics Report

Letter from the Director of Food Policy

Dear New Yorkers:

Welcome to the Food Metrics Report for 2014.

The New York City Council established reporting requirements for a variety of city agency initiatives related to food (Local Law 52 of 2011). The Food Metrics Report provides a snapshot of data from those programs in 2014 as well as trends over the past three years. These metrics are a useful accounting of work that city agencies are doing to address a number of needs still present in the city's food system. The City has made great progress over the past few years. More older adults who are eligible for nutrition assistance are getting that support. There are more gardens in schools and communities. There are also new supermarkets in underserved neighborhoods and more bodegas offering healthy food options. But there is much more to be done.

The mission of the Office of the Food Policy Director is to advance the City's efforts to increase food security, promote access to and awareness of healthy foods, and support economic justice and opportunity in the food system. We do this by coordinating and advancing a wide range of initiatives, led by city agencies, that work to strengthen the food system at all levels, from administering SNAP benefits, to supporting workers in food manufacturing, to serving meals to over a million students in the New York City school system every day. We work in partnership with advocates and non-profit organizations, relying on their expertise in working directly with communities to elevate the voice of New Yorkers in the policy-making process. Our goal is to work towards a stronger food system that is environmentally sustainable and resilient, and which works better for producers of food, workers in the food system, and consumers of food, regardless of income.

Keeping our goals of justice and sustainability in the food system in mind, we are working to improve and expand upon the metrics required by the Local Law. The Food Metrics Report serves as a resource for New Yorkers to understand the status quo in our food system and the role City government can play in addressing the food needs of our City's residents. To that end, we have added two additional metrics this year: the first is a snapshot of food insecurity in New York City and the Meal Gap, a metric reflecting the meals missing from the homes of New Yorkers that lack sufficient food; and the second is a listing of the number of New York City public school students that qualify for free or reduced-price lunch. These are a starting point for us to align our reporting with our values and priorities; and to collect a baseline upon which to focus our efforts towards building an equitable food system for New York City.

The Meal Gap in NYC

Food insecurity refers to a lack of consistent access to enough nutritionally adequate food for an active, healthy life for all members of a household. The USDA monitors the extent and severity of food insecurity in U.S. households through an annual, nationally representative survey. In New York City, 1.4 million people (17.4%) were food insecure at least some time during the year in 2012.

Feeding America has undertaken analysis to distill and present food insecurity data at the county level and identify where there is a Meal Gap, the meals missing from the homes of families and individuals struggling with food insecurity. Currently, New York City is missing 250 million meals.

	# of people food insecure	% of population food insecure	Meal Gap
Bronx	302,750	21.8%	53,000,000
Brooklyn	505,290	20.1%	88,000,000
Queens	312,830	14.0%	55,000,000
Manhattan	258,970	16.2%	45,000,000
Staten Island	48,970	10.5%	9,000,000
Citywide	1,428,810	17.4%	250,000,000

Free and Reduced Price Lunch

The National School Lunch Program, administered by the USDA, is a federally assisted meal program operating in over 100,000 public and non-profit private schools and residential child care institutions around the country. The NSLP provides nutritionally balanced, low-cost or free lunches to over 31 million children nationwide.

Any child at a participating school may purchase a meal through the National School Lunch Program. Children from families with incomes at or below 130 percent of the poverty level are eligible for free meals. Those with incomes between 130 percent and 185 percent of the poverty level are eligible for reduced price meals, for which students can be charged no more than 40 cents. In New York City, students who qualify for a reduced-price meal receive lunch for free. In addition, schools that serve primarily low-income children may provide free meals to all students through one of several provisions in the National School Lunch Program

For the 2013-2014 school year, 1,104,479 students were enrolled in NYC schools. Of those students, 871,275 were eligible for Free or Reduced Price Lunch (78.9%). For a full list of eligibility by school district, see Appendix B.

Metric 1: DEP Watershed Agricultural Program

Much of New York City's drinking water comes from reservoirs adjacent to productive farmland. The City promotes best agricultural practices as part of a program to preserve the quality of its source water. The Watershed Agricultural Program represents a long-term successful partnership between the City's Department of Environmental Protection and the Watershed Agricultural Council. The goal of the program is to support and maintain well-managed family farms as beneficial land uses for water quality protection and rural economic viability. Since 1992, the Watershed Agricultural Program has developed pollution prevention plans (Whole Farm Plans) on more than 400 small and large farms in both the Catskill/Delaware and Croton Watersheds, in addition to implementing over six thousand best management practices that reduce agricultural pollution and protect water quality. These farm plans and management practices are funded by the City in the form of technical and financial assistance to watershed farmers.

In 2014, a total of 73 farms participated on a total of 26,359 acres, with $2,197,862 in city financial support. For a list of participating farms by county and type, see Appendix C.

Metric 2. DOE Food Procurement

The Department of Education (DOE) is the largest school food service program in the United States with over $160 million in annual purchases of food, and can use its purchasing power to lead the market. DOE's Office of SchoolFood has made the procurement of local and fresh food a priority. DOE receives reports on the origins of the fresh, frozen and salad produce that it procures locally and regionally. The agency also generates reports on yogurt and milk, both of which are locally procured.

In Fiscal Year (FY) 2014, DOE spent $25.5 million on produce, milk, and yogurt that was locally or regionally grown or produced. Of that, $6.3 million was spent on produce, and $19.2 million was spent on milk and yogurt.

Metric 3. Community and School Gardens

GreenThumb is a program of the Department of Parks and Recreation (DPR) and is the largest community gardening program in the country. GreenThumb provides programming and material support to over 500 community gardens throughout the five boroughs. In 2014, the number of GreenThumb registered gardens has grown to 586.

Grow to Learn NYC is an initiative of GrowNYC, in partnership with GreenThumb, the Department of Education, and the Mayor's Fund, with the mission to inspire, facilitate and promote the creation of a sustainable school garden in every public school across New York City. GrowNYC provides NYC school gardeners with mini-grants, training workshops, and material giveaways so that all NYC students have the opportunity to grow food and develop healthier eating behavior, become better environmental stewards, experience rich academic learning environments and directly improve their communities. Since launching in February 2011, 436 out of approximately 1,800 NYC schools have registered garden projects with Grow to Learn.

For a list of community gardens located on DPR land and registered and licensed by GreenThumb, see Appendix D. For a list of registered Grow to Learn school gardens, see Appendix E. Information about the size of each garden and whether or not it engages in food production is included to the extent it is available.

Metric 4. Food Manufacturers

Food manufacturers are a key component of the City's economy. There are over 16,000 New York City residents working in food manufacturing and more than 1,100 food manufacturing businesses throughout the City. Providing support to these businesses during critical growth stages is important to ensure the success and expansion of the industry.

In 2012, the New York City Economic Development Corporation (NYCEDC), in partnership with Goldman Sachs' 10,000 Small Businesses initiative, launched the NYC Food and Beverage Manufacturers Growth Fund to make affordable financing available to small food manufacturers.

In FY 2014, 32 food manufacturers received a total of $2,425,133 in monetary benefits from NYCEDC or the New York City Industrial Development Agency (NYCIDA). For the full list of food manufacturers, and the annual dollar amount of such benefits per food manufacturer, see Appendix F.

Metric 5. Hunts Point Food Distribution Center

The Hunts Point Peninsula is an area of approximately 690 acres in the South Bronx, nearly half of which is occupied by the 329-acre Food Distribution Center. The Hunts Point Food Distribution Center is comprised of over 155 public and private wholesalers, including the Hunts Point Terminal Produce Market, the Cooperative Meat Market, and the New Fulton Fish Market, which together generate more than $4 billion in annual revenue. Companies that operate at the markets directly employ around 6,000 people in addition to a wider food processing and distribution ecosystem that the markets support.

The Hunts Point Terminal Produce Market opened in 1967. It is home to 47 businesses, directly employs 3,000 people, and generates approximately $2 billion in annual revenue.

The Hunts Point Cooperative Meat Market opened in 1974 and the New Fulton Fish Market opened in 2005, moving from its long-standing location at the South Street Seaport. The meat market is home to 37 businesses, directly employs 2,400 people, and generates approximately $1 billion in annual revenue.

The New Fulton Fish Market is home to 27 businesses, 650 direct employees, and approximately $1 billion in annual revenue.

Today, the Hunts Point wholesale markets are instrumental in feeding New York City and the region. The markets' location and access to regional transportation enable their diverse customer base of grocers, bodegas, supermarkets, restaurants, hotels, and institutions to purchase a wide assortment of affordable, quality food on a timely basis. The produce market supplies approximately 60% of the City's produce, and the meat and fish markets supply approximately 50% of the City's meat and seafood.

In 2013, The Fish Market had an average of 153 daily straight truck and tractor trailer trips; the Meat Market had an average of 93 straight truck and tractor-trailer trips; and the Produce market had an average of 220 straight trucks and 4- and 5- axel truck trips daily. The Produce market also had an average of 6 rail cars a day, and Baldor Specialty Foods had an average of 2-3 rail cars a week.

Metric 6. Grocery Stores in NYC

The legislation requires reporting on Metric 6, “the amount of grocery store space per capita, sorted by community board, and the number of grocery stores that opened during the past five calendar years, sorted by community board, to the extent such information is available.” For the 2013 report and every fifth report thereafter. This information will be provided in the 2018 Food Metrics Report.

Metric 7. Food Retail Expansion to Support Health (FRESH)

The Food Retail Expansion to Support Health initiative (FRESH) was established in 2009, in partnership with the City Council and in response to a study by the Department of City Planning, which was conducted with assistance from the Mayor’s Office, NYCEDC, and the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DOHMH). The study showed that many low-income areas across the city are underserved by neighborhood grocery stores. The resulting lack of nutritious, affordable, fresh food in the underserved neighborhoods has been linked to higher rates of diet-related diseases, including diabetes and obesity. Supermarket owners and operators have found it difficult to finance new projects in New York City because of high land costs. The program partially offsets those conditions by encouraging the creation and retention of supermarkets by providing zoning and financial incentives to eligible grocery store operators and developers in areas with limited availability of fresh food.

Since 2009, 18 FRESH projects have been approved for zoning and/or financial incentives. Nine of these projects have been completed; providing approximately 578,000 square feet of new or renovated grocery store space; estimated to retain over 500 jobs and create over 945 new jobs; and represents an investment of almost $80 million across the City. For a full list of stores receiving FRESH benefits, see Appendix G.

Metric 8. Shop Healthy NYC

Shop Healthy NYC is an initiative to support neighborhood-based sustainable changes in access to healthy food. To ensure a long-term impact on food access, Shop Healthy NYC aims to influence supply and demand by: 1) reaching out to food retailers, including bodegas and grocery stores, to increase stock and promotion of healthy foods, including intensively working with stores to meet specific criteria; 2) collaborating with distributors and suppliers to facilitate wholesale purchases and widespread promotion of healthy foods; and 3) engaging community constituents (customers) to support participating retailers and increase neighborhood access to healthy foods.

As of August 2014, 470 stores have agreed to promote their healthier items as part of Shop Healthy. Around 220 of those stores have also agreed to increase access to healthier foods. All Shop Healthy establishments are located in the Bronx and Brooklyn. In 2014 the program expanded from six to eight zip codes, which will include an expansion into East Harlem.

Metric 9. Food Sector Job Training Programs

The Department of Small Business Services (SBS) provides training grants to small business owners with the goal of helping New York City businesses and their employees succeed. Agricultural and food-related businesses can take advantage of these programs. The NYC Business Solutions' Customized Training Program helps businesses afford professional training services that can reduce employee turnover and increase productivity, thereby saving businesses money and increasing the City's economic development. It eliminates the financial constraints that keep businesses from investing in staff development by co-investing to cover 60-70% of eligible training costs.

From 2013-2014, SBS provided 6 food sector businesses with Customized Training grants, serving 275 trainees. For detailed information on SBS food-related job trainings, see Appendix H.

Metric 10 & Metric 11. Agency Meals and Food Standards

The Agency Standards for Meals/Snacks Purchased and Served (Standards) were established by Mayoral Executive Order 122, and set ambitious nutrition requirements for the foods purchased and meals and snacks served by City agencies. The Standards have been an integral part of the City's effort to increase access to healthy foods by improving the nutritional quality of food served in City programs. They were first distributed in September 2008, went into effect in March 2009, and were revised in October of 2011. City agencies have made significant progress in implementing the Standards.

Eleven City agencies are currently implementing the Standards, which apply to more than 240 million meals and snacks served per year across a variety of settings, including schools, senior centers, homeless shelters, public hospitals, and correctional facilities, among others. Agencies have an average compliance rate of 93% for the applicable standards, up from 89% in 2013.

Metric 12. Department of Education Vending Machines.

For the most recent contract year, there were 2,456 beverage vending machines and 902 snack vending machines located in facilities operated by the Department of Education. Their gross sales were $4.4 million and $5.2 million, respectively.

Metric 13. SNAP Benefits for Seniors

One in ten seniors in New York City lives in a household that lacks sufficient food. Over the past few years, Human Resources Administration (HRA), the Department for the Aging (DFTA), and the Food Bank for New York City have worked together to identify senior citizens eligible for but not receiving SNAP benefits through a computer match with the Senior Citizens Rent Increase Exemption (SCRIE) program. SNAP enrollment among seniors has gone up over the past three years. As of August 2014, there were 379,966 NYC residents 65 years or older receiving benefits through the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program.

Metric 14. SNAP Outreach Programs

HRA's Office of Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program Outreach Services (SNAP-OS) seeks to maximize the City's use of federal programs available to increase purchasing power of low-income New Yorkers by educating the public about SNAP benefits. SNAP-OS' services include SNAP trainings and presentations; prescreening potentially eligible applicants; and assisting with the SNAP application process. Over the past three years, HRA has grown this program by increasing the budget, the number of outreach sites, and the total number of presentations. In FY 2013, SNAP-OS conducted outreach at 257 unduplicated sites and three facilitated enrollment (POS) sites. In addition, this program conducted 53 presentations at various community based, human services, and government organizations, and monitored SNAP outreach activity at 79 community based organizations. The budget for this program for FY 2013 is $2,344,342.

Metric 15. Nutrition Education Programs.

Nutrition education programs administered by the Human Resources Administration (HRA) and the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DOHMH) include:

HRA SNAP-Ed Administration

The SNAP-Ed program is a federal program that provides nutrition education for SNAP participants and eligible individuals. While the SNAP program addresses food insecurity for low-income individuals, the goal of the SNAP-Ed program is to improve the likelihood that persons eligible for SNAP will make healthy food choices within a limited budget and choose physically active lifestyles. HRA administers SNAP-Ed funding for numerous SNAP-Ed programs, including Food Bank's CookShop program and activities of the Cornell Cooperative Extension. SNAP-Ed served 329,366 participants in 2013. The budget for FY 2013 is $6,488,385.

DOHMH Programs:

The Stellar Farmers' Market Initiative provides free nutrition workshops and cooking demonstrations at select farmers' markets across the city to promote the benefits of a diet rich in fruits and vegetables and improve the ability of low-income New Yorkers to prepare healthy meals using produce. Close to 6,000 nutrition workshops and cooking demonstrations have been held, reaching over 154,000 SNAP-eligible recipients since the program's inception in 2009. Funding for FY 2013 was $562,990 and is provided in part by the SNAP-Ed Program, through a contract with the New York State Department of Health. The program also distributed Health Bucks to more than 24,000 workshop participants with 89% of coupons redeemed.

Eat Well Play Hard (EWPH) employs registered dietitians from DOHMH to provide training to child care staff in high-need neighborhoods on the importance of good nutrition and physical activity for children aged three to four years. EWPH has worked with nearly 450 child care centers and public schools and has reached more than 50,000 children, parents, and staff since its inception in 2008. Funding for FY 2013 is $1,251,832 and is provided in part by the SNAP-Ed Program, through a contract with the New York State Department of Health.

District Public Health Offices (DPHO) provide nutrition education activities to the surrounding communities, including nutrition education presentations and technical assistance workshops aimed at nutrition promotion and wellness at schools. Funding for Bronx DPHO in FY 2013 was $499,687 (City Tax Levy, “CTL”). Funding for Brooklyn DPHO FY 2013 was $606,465 (CTL) and $311,383 (Grants). Funding for East Harlem DPHO FY 2013 was $336,244 (CTL).

Metric 16: Salad Bars in Schools and HHC Hospitals

DOE has installed salad bars in over 1,000 city schools as part of its efforts to provide healthy vegetables to students. The Health and Hospitals Corporation (HHC) offers salads in either prepackaged or made to order form by on site food vendors in eleven facilities: in Manhattan at Bellevue, Metropolitan, Harlem, and Coler; in the Bronx at Jacobi Medical Center and Lincoln Medical Center; in Brooklyn at Coney Island Hospital, Kings County, and Woodhull Hospital; and in Queens at Elmhurst and Queens Hospitals. HHC also has salad bars at Kings County (Brooklyn), Jacobi (Bronx), Woodhull Medical and Mental Health Center (Brooklyn), and Coney Island (Brooklyn).

Metric 17: Bottled Water Expenditures

The Department of Citywide Administrative Services (DCAS) is responsible for purchasing and inspecting food products for City agencies, including for the Department of Correction, the Human Resources Administration, and the Administration for Children's Services, and drinking water for all City agencies.

DCAS works closely with client agencies to develop specifications and solicitations that provide high quality food products at the lowest net cost. Most of the water DCAS purchases is for routine service to agency offices in multiple City-owned or leased facilities throughout the City. In FY12, DCAS registered a water purification unit installation and maintenance contract to reduce water purchases over time. In FY 2013, DCAS purchased additional bottled water for distribution at various sites and shelters in response to Hurricane Sandy.

DCAS expenditures on water for FY 2014 were $451,606 for bottled water in 5 gallon demijohn (including cooler rental) and $139,479 for single serve bottles.

Metric 18: Green Carts

Green Carts are mobile vending carts that sell fresh fruits and vegetables in low-income neighborhoods with low rates of fruit and vegetable consumption.

As of August 2014, there were over 450 active Green Carts with more than 110 using EBT machines. For a full list of information on Green Cart permits, and EBT machines, see Appendix J. For a list of information on Green Cart violations by location, see Appendix K.

Metric 19: Greenmarkets

There are total of 142 farmers markets located throughout NYC that are run by many different market operators. In 2014, 135 of these markets accept EBT. Greenmarket – a program of GrowNYC – is the largest farmers market operator in the city. Its 52 market locations can be found throughout the five boroughs. For a list of the number of Greenmarkets in NYC as well as the average number of producers at each market sorted by borough, see Appendix L.

* While the Department of Citywide Administrative Services (DCAS) participates in the implementation of the Standards as purchaser of food for numerous agencies, it does not submit a compliance report as information on items procured by DCAS is captured in the reports of other agencies

 Information is based on a review of food and beverages purchased and a one month sample of menus and nutrition analysis from any month in the year prior to the report's publication. Agencies were asked to submit a copy of menus and nutrition analysis to the Health Department for verification.

 Red fill indicates missing data or reporting error. Issues are being discussed with Agency contacts.

¹ Compliance data largely based on information submitted by agency program sites and/or program caterer from a self-report survey tool and is not verified; agencies continue to work to enhance processes to assess accuracy of program site and/or caterer self-report and to improve data quality going forward

² Compliance data based on field visits conducted by agency staff

³ Compliance data based on a combination of self-report survey and field visits or data collection coordinated by agency staff

⁴ Agency utilizes centralized menu and food ordering process; information for all locations based on agency assessment of products purchased and menu analysis conducted by agency nutritionists

⁵ Agency purchases food only

⁶ Agency serves snacks only

⁷ Agency did not submit supporting documentation this year

⁸ Review of supporting documentation shows Agency is not fully in compliance with meal standards on at least one day. However, weekly averages are compliant and individual days are within a reasonable range of Standards (and this was considered acceptable in 2013 reporting cycle)

⁹ Agency reported differently in 2013 and 2014. In 2014, in cases where purchased food standards were "not applicable," program was marked as "compliant."

¹⁰ Supporting documentation indicates compliance with meal standards, however, close inspection of menus reveals significant reporting errors. This has been discussed with Agency.

¹¹ Supporting documentation indicates several days are out of compliance with sodium and fiber.

* In 2013, the City launched Accela, a new permit and licensing system. The transition to this system resulted in changes to data collection and reporting. Because of this the number of active permits for 2013 is available for report, but the number of applications submitted is not.

Number fluctuates due to vendor usage

 The development and launch of Accela, resulted in delays in issuing new Green Cart permits. The technical issues are now nearly resolved, and the Department expects to begin calling names off of the waiting lists by the end of the year. Waitlists are restricted by borough. Once a waitlist is exhausted, a new borough-specific waitlist is created. Vendors can be on multiple lists at the same time, so the number does not necessarily represent unique individuals. A new wait list is created approximately twice a year.

The Administrative Code caps the number of Green Cart permits and the Rules of the City of New York details the procedures for creating waiting lists and then contacting those people who are on established waiting lists when permits become available. The rules were established to ensure fairness to all those interested in applying for these permits while giving a priority to disabled U.S. veterans, disabled persons (who are not veterans) and U.S. veterans (who are not disabled), in accordance with the Administrative Code.
