OPINION OF THE COUNSEL TO THE CORPORATION.

The expense of planting trees along lines of streets and avenues may be legally included in the cost of improvements thereof, as assessed upon the owners of property benefited by such improvements.

LAW DEPARTMENT—OFFICE OF THE
COUNSEL TO THE CORPORATION,
NEW YORK, October 20, 1874.

HON. ANDREW H. GREEN, Comptroller:

SIR—In your letter to me of the 17th instant, you state that after a careful review of the question whether the expense of trees, and the cost of planting, upon the lines of the various streets and avenues to be improved throughout the city, can be included in the assessment for the work, it seems to you that such expense cannot be legally maintained against the property-holders on the line of the improvement. You also state that you received my letter of the 14th instant, approving a judgment in the case of John Murphy for this class of work, and request to know, before paying this judgment, whether I am of opinion that the case should not be further litigated.

Several cases of this character have been brought before the courts, and in every instance it has been decided that the claim could not be resisted by the city, judgment has been directed for the plaintiff. I have also carefully examined the matter myself, and I am unable to see any grounds, either equitable or legal, upon which claims for work of this description can be contested. As the matter has been before the courts, and the judges in every instance have concurred in the views entertained by me, it seems quite certain that I am correct in the matter. The question seems so clear that I should be at a loss to make any argument upon an appeal, and I must therefore advise that this judgment be paid, and that claims for work of a similar description be paid without suit.

I am, sir,

Very respectfully, yours,
E. DELAFIELD SMITH,
Counsel to the Corporation.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT.

NEW YORK, October 19, 1874.

To Dr. W. DE F. DAY,
Sanitary Superintendent:

SIR—I have the honor to present this report of observations made by me in regard to the present condition of the street pavements and the necessity for removal of some of them, with suggestions for repair of others, based upon the examination of those adopted by the City and their comparative value. The pavements of a city have such an influence upon the health of its inhabitants, that they may be properly considered a subject of unusual sanitary interest, and as much the duty of the sanitary officer to notice, as of the engineer or constructor.

We can take but very little pride in speaking of the street pavements of New York—a city that has been so exceedingly progressive in the perfection of everything else belonging to it.

In beginning my task, I would call your attention to three essential qualifications of a perfect pavement, as far as its connection with health is concerned, and these are: 1st, Durability; 2d, Cleanliness and facility of being cleaned; 3d, Noiselessness. A durable pavement should not crack; should not be so soft as to be broken or crumbled easily; and, finally, it should be hard enough to withstand trituration to a great degree. A cleanly pavement should not be one easily depressed, so that collections of stagnant water take place. It should be as free as possible from cracks and interstices between the stones thereof, which collect filth. It should not consist of any substance liable to change, nor of easy disintegration, nor to collect surface fluids. Very few pavements are noiseless, inasmuch as they are composed of roughly hewn and faced stones or boulders unevenly laid. The asphalt and wooden pavements are the exceptions. Of all the pavements in New York but one possesses all the good qualities enumerated above. This is the "Grahamite," which I shall presently allude to. As far as I have been able to judge, the pavements of New York City may be included in this list:

1. Stone—

Belgian or trap.
Guidet improved.
Cobble stone.

2. Wooden—

Nicholson.
Perforated block.
Brown & Miller.
Stow foundation.
Stafford.
Robbins.
Hamar.

Asphalt (veritable).

Tar or poultice, "Fisk."

These are scattered throughout the city, the "Belgian" and "cobble stone" predominating, and the others distributed in patches. The "Nicholson" is laid in several avenues and some of the cross streets.

In the consideration of the relative merits of these, we must be guided by several important facts. The distribution of vehicles, heavy and light; that is to say, the use of certain streets to a very great extent by heavy or light vehicles. In connection with this we must regard the advantages possessed by some of these pavements to a great degree, which all do not share. To do this, it would perhaps be well to briefly discuss the merits of all:

Cobble-stone pavements, though inexpensive as regards original cost and after repair, have proved to be very poor. Not only are they irregular and uneven, but very difficult to clean, as large crevices between the individual stones collect large quantities of filth. Assistant Inspector Emerson has expressed to me his opinion of the cobble-stone pavements of his district, and he has observed the great difference in the size of the stones, the liability of the smaller ones to be crushed down, while the larger ones remain in bold relief to wrench the wheels of drays and other vehicles. I have noticed that depressions and holes are more common in this form of pavement than any other.

The Belgian and Guidet stone pavements are the best, and the Guidet I consider the most perfect for the road-bed for heavily loaded wagons. Its long cracks afford a better hold for the horses' shoes than the Belgian, and the stone seems much harder than all forms of pavement, except the cobble-stone and the trap-block. The disadvantages of all forms of stone pavement, are noise, wear, and tear on rolling-stock, and dirt. The trituration of some of the softer varieties makes dust, and the soft mud of some of the stone pavements is too patent to everybody to refer to it. Wooden pavements have proved to be such utter failures that there is little use of considering them at length. The wooden pavement, with its holes filled with water, its partially repaired surface, in places made tolerably level with flagged, broken stones, or isolated blocks of "Belgian" on one end, or "every which way," is an eyesore of the worst description. The duration of these pavements is not long, the blocks becoming sodden and water-soaked. In a few weeks the coal-tar and pitch become cracked and pulverized, and surface water finds its way beneath them, where it accumulates and stagnates; and, as horse manure and street filth collect, the smell attending the decomposition is something unbearable at times. These pavements are never entirely dry. I will not allude to the horrible plagues of "poultice" pavement that spread over the city some years ago. They crumbled and broke up; gritty dust was blown into the faces of the indignant public for several months, till some of it was removed. In several streets it remains, but in a condition which has called forth innumerable complaints from many property-owners. In my own district it is spread unevenly over the streets. Small puddles of dirty water mark the existence of holes of various depths. It will be a benefit to the sufferers to have it removed from all streets where it now lies. Perhaps one of the worst features of this "poultice" pavement, the ingredients of which are coal-tar, pitch, and gravel, is the assumption of the name "asphalt" given to it by the patentees. This has made the public think asphalt (I mean the genuine substance), is unsuited for pavement. The so-called asphalt pavements do not contain asphalt in any instance, except the "Grahamite" pavement. Specimens of this may be seen in Twenty-eighth street, between Fifth avenue and Broadway, opposite the Worth monument; Thirty-eighth street, between Fifth and Madison avenues; and on Eighteenth street, between Irving place and Fourth avenue; and, I believe, in Thomas street, where it is submitted to heavy tests. It is perfectly noiseless; the durability is proved by the fact that no repairs have been put upon any portion, and some of it has been laid nearly two years. General Averill, the President of the concern, has had the number of vehicles counted that passed in one day over the strip on Fifth avenue, and these were between six o'clock A. M. and six P. M., 13,956 in number. It has been proved to be impervious to water, and, as there are no cracks nor interstices, as are found between the stones of the "Belgian," "cobble-stone," or "Guidet," there is no chance for mud or dirt to be forced up and accumulate upon the surface.

Asphalt is so valuable a paving substance, that I will venture to say a few words about the particular kind used in these patent pavements. Asphalt, or "mineral pitch" is composed of two substances—asphaltene and petroleum. It is found in nature, combined with carbonate of lime and other ingredients of a mineral nature. It fuses only at a very high temperature—400° F., and does not lose its hardness, unless constantly exposed at a temperature of 160° F. The manufacturers of the "Grahamite" combine different varieties of varying consistency, so that the pavement when well laid, stands a much higher temperature without softening. Its hardness and elasticity may be illustrated by a personal experiment.

I struck a block of it a heavy blow with a hammer, the force of this blow being sufficient to cleave an ordinary granite block. It hardly produced a dent upon the asphalt block. The patches already laid have worn less than a 25th of an inch in the space of a year. I have inspected the streets laid with "Grahamite," and find them in excellent condition. There are no cracks at the junction with the curb-stones of the gutters; there are no holes; the surface is clean; and the sensation of riding over these places is very agreeable.

A strong argument for the adoption of the "Grahamite" is the fact that the wear and tear of vehicles is reduced to a minimum.

I have extracted from the report of Mr. Van Nort, in the last report of the Department of Public Works, statements which show the cost of repairs of the various pavements:

Cobble-stone, 55 cents per square yard.
Belgian, $2.40 per square yard.
Guidet improved, $6 per square yard.
Granite-block, $2.56-$2.89 per square yard.
Fish Bituminous, $3.50 per square yard.
Wooden, $5 per square yard.

I am informed that the cost of repairing the "Grahamite" will be 25 cents per square yard.

By this it will be seen that the Guidet Improved Pavement is the most expensive, and "Grahamite" the least so; but it may be said in favor of "Guidet," that its good quality, in the first place, and durability, do not necessitate frequent repair.

The tendency of all stone pavement to sink under the wheels of heavily-laden vehicles, so that hollows and depressions exist, is a bad one, and due, in every instance, to bad laying.

The additional expense of setting the stones in concrete would be enormous; but if the bed for the reception of the squares was made of well-pounded gravel, I think these pavements would be much more durable than they now are, and certainly much of the accumulation of mud on their surface would be prevented. It is a common sight to see a stone pavement "settled" entirely out of grade, and full of holes. The effects of dust upon the human organism are deleterious in the highest degree. Numerous diseases of the air-passages are provoked—among them, affections of the larynx, naso-pharyngeal catarrh, broncho-pneumonia, phthisis pulmonalis, and other serious conditions. Dirty streets are very sufficient causes for the production or aggravation of all of them.

Wet and muddy street-pavements give rise to the same and other conditions, and damp wooden pavements, where putrescent substances are held, from which miasmatic odors are evolved, I consider to be the breeders of many forms of disease.

A quiet and noiseless street-pavement would advance the health of the population to a great extent. The sufferer from nervous diseases would find relief from the noise of empty omnibuses and wagons rumbling or rattling on the rough stones in the event of a removal of this nuisance. In fact, there would be many more sanitary benefits resulting from a change than I can here detail. For streets devoted to business purposes, we must have a durable, heavy pavement. Noiselessness and cleanliness are not as important desiderata here as in the part of the City containing the greater number of dwelling-houses. In these streets we need a quiet, easily-cleaned, durable roadway.

I would most strongly recommend the "Grahamite," or some form of real asphalt pavement, for the upper streets and avenues, and the Guidet for the streets down town. I need not explain why, for the comparative merits of the pavement will decide this. Dr. Fordyce Barker and others have strongly advised the laying of a greater extent of "Grahamite." It certainly is conducive to a better state of health. It is easily cleaned, and rarely covered by any mud, except that carried over it.

The policy of the City to put such an enormous amount of work upon the upper part of the City is certainly not a wise one. There are people downtown, below Fifty-ninth street, who have greater need of well-paved streets than the squatters on the rocks, the geese, and the pigs of the upper part of the island. Good streets should be provided for those who use them the most, and I cannot but believe that the economy of smooth, well-paved streets in the saving of running-gear, and the preservation of the health of many people, would reconcile them for paying the necessary tax.

Respectfully submitted.

ALLAN McLANE HAMILTON, M.D.,
Assistant Sanitary Inspector.

Whereas, In the opinion of this Board, no question more directly affecting the welfare of the people of this State, and in an especial manner the people of this city, has ever been submitted for their consideration, than the amendments proposed to the present Constitution of this State, which are to be submitted to them for ratification or rejection at the ensuing election; and

Whereas, Measures of such vital importance to the good government of our people should be thoroughly understood and fully comprehended by all our citizens previous to their submission for decision at the polls, and the greatest possible publicity should be given to each proposed amendment; to that end, therefore, publication should be made in the most important, if not all the daily and weekly newspapers in this city, for two weeks previous to the day of election, as it is clear that an intelligent comprehension of the benefits certain to result from their adoption can be best effected in this manner; and

Whereas, The Common Council, by section 111 of chapter 335, Laws of 1873, is debarred from the privilege of publishing any subject or matter at the public expense, in any other paper than the CITY RECORD, and the Secretary of State, in giving notice to the amendments proposed, is restricted to two publications in two or three newspapers in this city, consequently, unless the proprietors of the other newspapers will gratuitously publish the amendments, the needed and much desired publicity will not be obtained; be it therefore

Resolved, That the proprietors of the several daily and weekly newspapers published in this city, irrespective of political affiliations or bias, be and they are hereby respectfully requested to publish, without expense to the city, the said several proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State, or a comprehensive synopsis thereof, as frequently as possible, previous to the next election, November 3, 1874, in order that their provisions may be clearly understood, and the beneficial effects of their adoption be fully appreciated by all our citizens.
