DEPARTMENT OF PARKS.

BOROUGH OF BROOKLYN AND QUEENS

REPORT FOR THE YEAR ENDING DECEMBER 31, 1908.

Department of Parks, Boroughs of Brooklyn and Queens.
Litchfield Mansion, Prospect Park,
Brooklyn, December 31, 1908.

Hon. GEORGE B. McCLELLAN, Mayor of The City of New York:

Dear Sir—In compliance with the provisions of the Charter, I send you herewith the report of work undertaken and accomplished in this Department for the year just closed.

I have the honor to remain,

Very truly yours,

M. J. KENNEDY, Commissioner.

The policy of improving the parks now in possession of this Department as to make them available for the enjoyment of the greatest number of people has been strictly adhered to during the year just closed.

Prospect Park.

Special attention has been paid to Prospect Park, and the results obtained are in every way gratifying. The roadways have been maintained in a satisfactory condition. Not only have they been resurfaced with Hudson River gravel, but a system has been devised whereby the roadways are kept in constant repair. The work of replacing the various antiquated styles of gutters, which tend to make the roadways unsightly and retard proper drainage, has been continued, and more than six thousand (6,000) linear feet of brick gutter laid on concrete foundation was constructed during the year.

The repaving of the paths and walks throughout the park has been prosecuted with vigor. Three hundred and forty-six thousand three hundred and seventy-three (346,373) square feet of hexagonal asphalt tile pavement was laid during the year, and a similar amount which it is proposed to lay during the year 1909 will do away entirely with all the unsightly tar and other pavements that have disfigured the park for years.

In connection with the repaving of the walks, many improvements in the grades and lines were accomplished, and the drainage was bettered in many respects.

The important feature of replanting the plantations of trees and shrubbery and the replacing of vitiated and worn-out soil received full attention. Thirty-three hundred and thirty-four (3,334) trees and eighty-nine hundred and forty-one (8,941) shrubs were set out, and two thousand (2,000) cubic yards of topsoil were purchased and distributed. In addition to the planting of new trees, the work of caring for the existing trees was performed by competent men, who worked under the direction of the Arboriculturists. Four thousand seven hundred and fifteen (4,715) trees were trimmed, three hundred and twelve (312) trees removed, five hundred and twenty-six (526) filled, seven hundred and fifty-one (751) dressed, and other attention was given to them. As a result the many magnificent specimens are in excellent condition.

One of the most picturesque sections of Prospect Park has been very aptly named the "Vale of Cashmere," as it affords a continuous floral display from early spring till late in the fall. Soon after the snow of winter disappears the crocuses, narcissus, hyacinth and tulip are in bloom, followed by the flowering dogwood and the varicolored blooms of the rhododendron, kalmia, azalea and magnolia, of which species there is an abundance. Before this gorgeous display is finished some five thousand (5,000) rose-bushes are in flower. Many of the latter bloom throughout the summer and fall, and late in summer are augmented by various varieties of hydrangeas. This entire section was early last spring rearranged, the collection of flowering shrubs largely added to and the entire area resoled and fertilized. As a result the floral display throughout the season was exceptionally fine.

The flower garden, another show place of Prospect Park likewise received much attention, a number of flower beds being added and the shrubbery rearranged and augmented.

The old-fashioned garden on Breeze Hill was remodeled, some thirty (30) new varieties of herbaceous plants being introduced.

Large areas of the park lawns that had become worn and unsightly were regraded, seeded or partially sodded, the amount of grass seeds purchased and laid being upward of one hundred and ten thousand (110,000) square feet.

The temporary skating house erected in the fall of 1907 was used for a short season during the month of February and dismantled in March. A more commodious structure was put in its place in November to take care of the skaters during the present season.

The new tennis house is now in course of construction. Work thereon is being progressed as rapidly as the weather will permit. The work thus far accomplished insures the completion of the building and its opening to the public early in the summer.

The granite entrance to the park at Fifteenth street and Prospect Park West has been completed, and has resulted in a very artistic gateway being added to the park.

Prospect Park Plaza.

The work of remodeling the plaza, as far as the funds at the disposal of the Department permitted, was begun late in the summer. A contract was awarded to the Hastings Pavement Company for taking up the old block pavement on the southerly portion of the plaza, between Union street and Eastern parkway, and laying in its place a pavement of asphalt blocks on a concrete foundation. The contract also provided for the furnishing and setting of new limestone curbing around the parts affected. All this work was completed before the advent of cold weather, at a total cost of thirty thousand six hundred and seventy-three dollars and eight cents ($30,673.08).

East Plaza street was also resurfaced with Hudson River gravel, and the block gutter on the west side of the roadway was relaid.

Parade Ground.

The work of providing the parade ground with paved sidewalks, which was begun in 1907, was fully completed during the year. It comprised the construction of concrete curbing around three sides of the park, the laying of cement sidewalks ten feet in width along the same sides and the grading and topsoiling of the adjoining areas. After the completion of this work twenty-five thousand (25,000) square feet of sods were laid along the new walks and the grounds in general put in good condition. The latter work was done by park labor. The trees surrounding the parade ground were thoroughly brushed, scraped, cleaned and freed from deadwood, and later on sprayed to prevent the invasion of insects.

During the season the grounds were kept in good condition, and the crowds that engaged in the different athletic games exceeded those of any previous year. The new house constructed two years ago has been of great service to the vast crowds and is thoroughly appreciated. It contains lockers, baths and everything that goes to make up a well equipped clubhouse.

Forest Park.

Forest Park, the largest park in area of the system, located in Queens Borough, received considerable attention. The roadways were repaired and resurfaced and kept in good condition. The golf links, consisting of an 18 hole course, were improved and maintained in a satisfactory manner. The nursery was considerably enlarged and rearranged and the greenhouses repaired and painted. One hundred and two thousand (102,000) summer flowering plants were propagated and raised in the establishment, and distributed and planted in the various parks under the control of the Department.

Two laws enacted by the Legislature of 1908 affected this park in a vital manner. One had as its object the construction of a boundary road or parkway on the southeasterly side of the park, beginning at Myrtle avenue and ending at Union turnpike, one-half of which is to be constructed on private property donated for this purpose. The other measure which passed the Legislature and was signed by the Governor was an act permitting the City authorities to construct a parkway between Highland and Forest Parks, running part of the way through Cypress Hills Cemetery. Ever since 1894 this Department has tried to have a law enacted so as to make the construction of a connecting link between these two large parks along the only feasible route, possible. The matter is now in the hands of the Chief Engineer of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment for final determination.

Highland Park.

Little work of a constructive character was done in this park during the year, chiefly for lack of funds. The existing roadways were resurfaced with screenings and rolled, the paths were repaired and kept in good condition, the flower garden, one of the show places of the park, was extended and a large variety of aquatics was shown in the water garden.

Fort Greene Park.

This is one of the oldest parks of the system, and the trees in many cases showed signs of decay. A large amount of work has been expended on the trees and shrubbery. The spread of the invasion of the bark beetle, which appeared early in the summer, was very effectively checked and the trees freed from egg masses. A number of lawns were dug up, fertilized and reseeded, and fifty thousand (50,000) square feet of grass sod purchased and laid where most needed. The monument erected to the memory of the Prison Ship Martyrs was practically completed during the year and the dedication ceremonies on November 14, which were attended by President-elect William H. Taft, Governor Charles E. Hughes and a number of other prominent officials, attracted a large assembly of citizens to the park. The construction of the monument necessitates the remodeling of a large area of the park, consisting of grading, the rearrangement of the drainage and walk systems, and other work incidental thereto. The plans for these changes have been completed, and it is hoped that the money to do this much needed work will be obtained during the year 1909.

Sunset Park.

This park is as yet not fully completed, and considerable work remains to be done before it can be regarded as a finished proposition. During the year a large amount of work was performed tending toward this object. Seven thousand (7,000) cubic yards of good, nutritious soil were purchased and spread over the entire area of the park. A contract was awarded for the erection of a boundary wall on three sides of the park, and the work had far advanced when it was discovered that the contractor was violating the specifications, and he was directed to take down the greater part of the wall and rebuild the same in a proper manner. This latter work is now in progress.

The planting plan of the park has been completed by the Landscape Architect, and it is hoped that the park may be planted and thoroughly completed during the coming spring season. Cement sidewalks were laid on the Fifth avenue and Forty-fourth street sides of the park.

McLaughlin Park.

McLaughlin Park is used principally as a playground for the children of the neighborhood. To this end it is provided with gymnasium apparatus and games of various kinds for the enjoyment of the youngsters. The borders surrounding the playgrounds were enclosed with a rail and wire fence and planted with trees and shrubbery. The latter work, for the first time in the history of the Department, was done by contract, and did not prove a success. It has been shown that work of this character could be performed by park employees in a more economical and satisfactory way. The attendance at all times has been large, and an athletic tendency has been developed, especially by the boys who visit the grounds and use the apparatus.

Greenpoint Park.

This park, comprising forty-two (42) acres, has been in the hands of the Department for several years. Up to date little work of a permanent character has been done. It has been enclosed with a strong iron rail fence, and a contract has been entered into for the rough grading of the interior.

Owing to the fact that the property is bisected by four street railroad lines, it was extremely hard to devise a plan which would suit the conditions as found, and an effort was therefore made to induce the railroad companies to take up the tracks of the various lines and shift them to the streets surrounding the park. Owing to a number of complications the railroad companies have declined to do so. A plan has now been evolved by the Landscape Architect that will treat each section within the various railroad lines separately and connect the same in a suitable manner.

Small Parks.

The smaller parks of the two Boroughs received the usual attention throughout the year.

Winthrop Park, in Greenpoint, was practically remodeled. Six thousand (6,000) cubic yards of top soil were purchased and the entire park area resurfaced therewith. The walks throughout the park were paved with asphalt tiles, the drainage was amplified and an irrigation system was provided. Plans have been perfected to replant the park in the spring, and it is expected that next summer the park will be in excellent condition.

Cooper Park, in the same locality, is provided with an asphalt tile walk pavement. Considerable grading was done in connection with this work; six hundred and fifty-five (655) cubic yards of top soil were purchased and spread. Some ten thousand (10,000) square feet of sods were cut within the park area and laid along the path borders.

Bushwick Park, in the Williamsburg section of the Borough of Brooklyn, received much attention. The lawns of the park were re-surfaced with top soil, graded and seeded, two thousand (2,000) cubic yards of top soil being used for this purpose, and all the trees and shrubs in the park cultivated and provided with fertilizer. The interior walks of the park were paved with asphalt tiles, and many additions to the park drainage system were provided.

Bedford Park—The walks were paved with asphalt tiles and a number of changes in the lines and grades of the paths were made. The lawn spaces adjoining the paths were regraded and provided with fresh top soil, and eight thousand (8,000) square feet of grass sod were laid. All the trees were thoroughly overhauled, cleaned and freed from dead wood and insects.

Fulton Park, one of the newest parks of the system, had all the walks paved with asphalt tiles, and a fountain with granite coping was provided for the ornamentation of the same. Considerable grading was done on the interior and the borders of the park. The trees and shrubbery were carefully attended to. Work on a new comfort station and shelter house was started late in the fall and the building will be completed in the spring.

Saratoga and Irving Square Parks also received a permanent walk pavement, consisting of asphalt tiles laid on a sand foundation. Both parks were partly regraded in connection with this work, and were provided with drainage and irrigation lines.

Seaside Park in Coney Island was provided with cement sidewalks around the exterior of the park, while the interior was paved with asphalt tiles.

Kings Park, Jamaica—A plan for the final layout of this park has been furnished by the Landscape Architect, and some of the work incidental to the final carrying out of the same was performed during the year. Forty one thousand eight hundred and eighty (41,880) feet of asphalt tile walks were laid, and a large amount of grading, which was made necessary by the building of the new walks, was done by park labor. About three thousand (3,000) cubic yards of subsoil were secured, and two thousand five hundred (2,500) cubic yards of topsoil purchased and spread where required.

Flushing and College Point Parks in Queens Borough were likewise provided with a permanent walk pavement of asphalt tiles, and the grading incidental to this work was attended to.

Ashmont Park in Jamaica, Linden Park in Corona and Riney Park in Long Island City received special attention. No new work tending toward the final development was possible on account of lack of funds.

Borough Hall Park, while small, is considered one of the show places of the Borough. The floral displays in the spring and during the summer were exceptionally fine, and admired by everybody.

Brooklyn Heights Parks, consisting of five on Columbia Heights, were kept in good condition throughout the season. A large number of flowering plants were set out during the summer, the display of tulips and hyacinths in the spring being extensive.

Carroll Park was thoroughly overhauled, the trees pruned, limbed and cleaned of insects. Three hundred (300) cubic yards of topsoil were purchased and spread, and six thousand (6,000) square feet of grass sod were laid.

City Park was likewise thoroughly overhauled. Five thousand (5,000) square feet of grass sod were laid in addition to the regular work of maintenance.

McKimley, Fort Hamilton, Dyker Beach and Bensonhurst Parks, all in the extreme southern section of the Borough, received special attention. The roadways in Dyker Beach and Bensonhurst Parks were resurfaced with Hudson River gravel.

Amersfort, Canarsie, Ingleton and Linden Parks were maintained throughout the year in fine condition. The lawns, trees and shrubbery received proper attention, but no new work in the way of construction was undertaken in any of these parks.

Klatsers Park, in Flushing, Queens County, which was reported last year as encumbered with a number of buildings which turned over to the Department. Those buildings were sold by the Finance Department, and removed during the summer. The nursery which was located on part of the purchased land has been developed; large numbers of trees and shrubbery were taken therefrom and planted in various parks of the system. The remainder was transplanted within the borders of the park and carefully looked after. A number of temporary paths and some small bridges over the stream were constructed and the place cleaned up in general.

Playgrounds.

In addition to McLaughlin Park the Department maintains playgrounds for both boys and girls in Greenpoint Park, under the Williamsburg Bridge and in New Lots Playground. These playgrounds are supervised throughout the year by competent instructors, and the equipment was enlarged and improved in every respect. At the New Lots Playground a comfort station and shelter house is in course of construction and will be completed in the spring.

The Parkway.

Ocean Parkway—This popular parkway received particular attention at the hands of the Department. The most important improvement made during the year was the paving of the westerly traffic road between Prospect Park and Lindbergh avenue, a distance of one and three-quarter miles, with asphalt pavement on a concrete foundation. This improvement included the setting of limestone curbing, building of catch basins, and the extension of the drainage system connected with the roadway. The main driveway was partly resurfaced, especially at its lower end near Coney Island Creek. The cycle paths were partly resurfaced and rolled. The traffic park on the east side of the parkway was resurfaced with gravel and loam, and the speedway was recoted with loam and harrowed and sprinkled throughout the season. The trees which form one of the leading features of the parkway were cleaned, pruned, cultivated, fertilized and watered constantly. Four hundred and nine (409) young trees were planted where required. An old timber bridge located where the parkway crosses Coney Island Creek, partly collapsed late in the summer and had to be reconstructed. This work was accomplished, mostly by park labor, without seriously interfering with traffic, in thirty days.

Eastern Parkway—The traffic roads on this parkway having been paved with asphalt last year required little attention. The main roadway was resurfaced in part and kept in constant repair. The trees received special attention, and a number of new trees were planted. Twenty-five thousand (25,000) square feet of grass sod were laid, and the surface of the promenade on both sides of the main road was renewed with limestone screenings.

Eastern Parkway Extension and Highland Boulevard—Portions of the extension of the Eastern parkway were resurfaced with trap rock and screenings, and repairs to the asphalt pavement were made wherever necessary. The high retaining wall on Highland boulevard was underpinned and provided with a new foundation 10 feet in depth and 150 feet in length. This was occasioned by an adjoining property owner desiring to erect a building, and upon making the excavation for his cellar it was found that the heavy wall was practically without foundation.

Shore Road—The rip rap wall which is to mark the outer boundary of this driveway when completed and extending approximately along the bulkhead line between Bay Ridge parkway and Fort Hamilton has been completed. This work called for the delivery and emplacement of one hundred and forty-one thousand seven hundred and twenty-three (141,723) tons of stone at an expenditure of ninety thousand seven hundred and two dollars and ninety-one cents ($90,702.91). The accomplishment of this work marks the first step in the completion of this fine parkway along the lines of the original plan formulated by the late Frederick Law Olmstead. The existing driveway has been repaired and resurfaced in numerous places, and a large amount of work of a maintenance character has been performed.

Bay Ridge parkway, being the inland continuation of the Shore road, also received considerable attention. A large portion of the road was resurfaced with trap rock. Trees were cared for, and considerable sodding and seeding was done on the slopes flanking the driveway.

Bay parkway, formerly Twenty-second avenue, was almost entirely resurfaced with limestone and Hudson River gravel, and the parkway is in good condition.

Pittin, Glenmore, Stane and Pennsylvania avenues were maintained in good condition and regularly cleaned and sprinkled throughout the year.

Fort Hamilton parkway was resurfaced with trap rock between New Utrecht avenue and Fifty-second street. Owing to the worn-out condition of the macadam pavement and the extremely heavy business traffic on this street, the work of repairing the roadway was necessarily continuous and constant. In spite of the efforts of park employees the roadway could not be kept in good condition. A new permanent pavement is urgently needed on this parkway.

Care of Street Trees.

The work of caring for the trees in the city streets in the two Boroughs was systematically carried on. Special attention was given to the destruction of the tussock moth caterpillar and the elm leaf beetle, not omitting other requirements, such as the removal of dead and dangerous trees, superfluous branches, diseased cavities, tight guards and neglected wounds. The practicality of doing this work in a systematic manner in the various sections was proven beyond doubt by the preservation of the foliage against the absolute defoliation of many trees in untreated areas. There is a general improved appearance of the trees, due to the better care, and a marked decrease in the number of requests for treatment and attention.

Aside from this systematic section work, due attention was given to the care of the trees in compliance with requests from private citizens. Invasions of insects in new sections were given prompt attention, and inspection was furnished in numerous cases where houses were to be moved along streets lined with trees, where private companies were stringing wires through trees, where private individuals were trimming trees and where paving and grading was going on. Advice was given freely to those who desired to plant trees and care for them at their own expense.

An idea of the amount of work done is obtained from the following summary:

Character of Work.	Number of Trees.	Character of Work.	Number of Trees.
Cleaned of insects.....	23,427	Bound with cotton.....	11,035

Plenish, Baseball, Tennis, Golf, etc.

During the year seven hundred and twenty (720) games were held in Prospect Park with an aggregate attendance of sixty-five thousand one hundred and seventy-two (65,172). Seventeen hundred and fifty-three (1,753) permits were issued to play tennis in Prospect Park; thirteen hundred and eighty-seven (1,487) permits for golf at Forest Park; and one hundred and seventy-five (175) permits to play croquet in Prospect Park. Three thousand two hundred and one (3,201) permits were issued for baseball on the parade ground. There were twenty-five hundred and seven (2,507) games of baseball played; six hundred and fifty-two (652) games of football, and two hundred and fifty-two (252) games of cricket.

The Public School Athletic League and the Young Men's Christian Association each held a cross-country run on the parade ground, and John M. Hayes, the Marathon winner, gave two exhibition runs and acted as instructor for the large number of boys in these two runs.

Skating in the Park.

There were eight days of skating during the year. On February 3 the lakes were open, the ice being two inches or more in thickness. Large crowds enjoyed this sport. The lake was open for skating on the 4th, 5th, 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th and 12th of February. On the last named day a thaw set in and skating was discontinued for the season.

Music.

The concerts in Prospect Park began on May 31 and continued each Saturday and Sunday during the summer, closing on October 11. During the season thirty-nine (39) concerts were given in Prospect Park by the regimental bands, and fifty-four (54) in the smaller parks. The German Singers gave two concerts in Prospect Park at each of which about four hundred (400) singers took part, and two concerts in Highland Park by individual societies under the auspices of the United German Singers. The four concerts were well considered and were enjoyed by large crowds.

The number of concerts in the smaller parks were as follows:

Sunset Park.....	10	Cooper Park.....	3
Fort Greene Park.....	10	Corona Park.....	2

Revenues.

During the year the sum of twenty-two thousand one hundred and fifty-seven dollars and one cent ($22,157.01) was received for rent of houses, revenue from park privileges, sale of property and lay window permits. This amount was turned over to the City Chamberlain.

Statement of Museums of the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences.

The third section or eastern wing of the Museum having been completed in 1907 and formally turned over to the custody of the institute by the Hon. Michael J. Kennedy, Park Commissioner of the Boroughs of Brooklyn and Queens, on December 14 of that year, the institute has been able to occupy during the entire year of 1908 all three of the Museum sections which comprise that part of the completed building facing on the Eastern parkway.

The completion of the third section has made possible a more extended classification of the Museum collections whereby exhibits related in character may be grouped in a single gallery or exhibition hall. It has also made available very much needed working rooms for the Curators and their assistants, the Taxidermists, the Cabinet-makers and Carpenter and the Printer.

The large gallery in the western wing has been hung exclusively with paintings by American artists, the large gallery in the eastern wing with paintings by recent or contemporary European artists. The Tisset collection of paintings illustrating the life of Christ is continued in the gallery in which it was originally hung. Two galleries in the eastern wing have been hung with paintings belonging to the older Italian, Dutch, German, French and English schools.

On the second or natural history floor the main gallery in the western wing is devoted entirely to vertebrate animals, while the main gallery in the eastern wing contains the collections of invertebrates. The herbarium has been transferred to a room on the ground floor exclusively used for the collections in the department of botany and in cases especially constructed to contain collections. The library has been transferred to three rooms on the ground floor in the eastern wing, and is now easily used by the Museum staff and specialists who wish to consult it, and also by the general public. The large geographical collection which was partly in storage while the eastern wing of the building was being constructed is again available for reference in its entirety. The porcelains, glass and other similar collections heretofore exhibited in the square gallery in the western wing have been placed in the galleries on the main floor of the east wing. The Egyptian collections received in 1907 and 1908 together with those previously owned by the institute, have been in process of installation in the Egyptian gallery in the eastern wing. The smaller galleries in the western wing, heretofore used by the library, the Oriental collections and the collections in pottery and glass, have been reserved for the department of ethnology, and collections in American ethnology have been in the process of installation in these galleries during the year.

The Macey Company installed cases constructed by it at a cost of seven thousand two hundred and forty-five dollars ($7,245), but the cases were not completed and made ready for use before the close of the year. Twelve cases for botanical specimens, one case to hold one hundred (100) insect drawers, nine cases for the department of ethnology and three cases for the children's museum, were built during the year by the Cabinetmaker. In two of the rooms in the western wing cases were taken down and removed to the eastern wing, where they were again set up. A friend of the institute presented wall cases for one of the smaller galleries in order that some very instructive collections in natural history might be placed on exhibition.

The architects, Messrs. McKim, Mead & White, were at work during the entire year on the plans and design for the completed museum building, including the astronomical observatory. Preliminary drawings, thirty-two feet to the inch, were submitted in December for the completed museum building and were satisfactory to the institute.

The purpose of the observatory is to provide means for popular instruction for children in the higher grades in the public and private schools and for the general public. The requirements of a public observatory are (1) astronomical instruments so arranged on the upper floor of the observatory as to be readily used by the public; (2) exhibition rooms in which may be illustrated the sizes, relative positions, motions and compositions of the sun, moon, comets, planets, and their satellites, stars, nebulae and other astronomical bodies, and (3) a small lecture room in which may be explained to classes of students what is to be seen or what has been seen with the astronomical instruments.

The site for the observatory as designated by the Department of Parks is an excellent one, lying west of the Museum and south of the Prospect Hill Reservoir. There will be room on the site in front of the observatory for a level space, paved with granolithic, one hundred and eighty (180) feet in length and twenty-four (24) feet in width, on which small telescopes may be temporarily placed from time to time on pleasant evenings for observation.

During the entire year of 1908 Mr. Daniel C. French and the other sculptors associated with him in designing thirty (30) large monolithic sculptures for the three facades of the museum building have been engaged upon their work. In 1907 twenty-two (22) preliminary studies by these sculptors were submitted and approved by the Park Commissioner of the Boroughs of Brooklyn and Queens, the Trustees of the institute, the Architects of the museum building and the Art Commission of The City of New York. During the year 1908 the remaining eight preliminary studies were submitted and approved. The thirty (30) completed plaster models of the sculptures, approximately six (6) feet in height, were also submitted and approved. The work of cutting in stone these sculptures, each approximately twelve (12) feet in height, was commenced by Piccirilli Brothers in the spring, and ten of the sculptures were practically completed during the year, and work has been commenced on several others. It is expected that the entire thirty (30) sculptures will have been cut in stone by May or June, 1909, and be ready to be placed in position on the Museum.

The subjects of the thirty (30) sculptures, together with the names of the sculptors to whom they were respectively assigned, are as follows:

This valuable series will add very greatly to the architectural character of the building and will form an important contribution to the history of sculpture in this country.

Mr. Daniel C. French made a preliminary study of the sculptures as originally proposed to rest on the pediment of the front portico of the Museum Building. It was found after the model had been completed that the design was inadequate to the requirements of the building. Mr. French therefore made a preliminary study of a sculptural group to occupy the triangular space in the gable of the portico and to rest on the pediment. On the recommendation of the Hon. Michael J. Kennedy, Park Commissioner, and with the approval of the architects of the building and the Trustees of the Institute, the Board of Estimate and Apportionment authorized in September an additional appropriation of twenty thousand dollars ($20,000) to cover the additional expense of a sculptural group in keeping with the size and character of the Museum Building.

The appropriation for the maintenance of the Central and the Children's Museum for 1908 was ninety-five thousand dollars ($95,000), and the full amount was expended. The appropriation made in 1908 for the year 1909 was one hundred and three thousand nine hundred and five dollars ($103,905).

The sum of twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000) is required for the construction of cases and bookshelves to contain collections and books in the eastern and central sections of the Museum.

The attendance at the Central Museum was two hundred and three thousand nine hundred and forty (203,940), an increase of thirty-five thousand two hundred and fifty-five (35,255) over the previous year. The attendance at the Children's Museum was one hundred and seventeen thousand one hundred and eighty-two (117,182), an increase of nineteen thousand three hundred and seventy-seven (19,377) over the year just preceding. The total attendance at the two museums was three hundred and twenty-one thousand one hundred and twenty-two (321,122), and the increase over the preceding year for the two museums was fifty-four thousand six hundred and thirty-two (54,632). These increases are due to three causes—first, the use for the first time in any fiscal year of the eastern wing and the central approach of the Central Museum; second, the large additions made to the collections and their more perfect classification and labeling, and, third, the fact that an increasing number of people in the City take interest in art subjects, in natural history and in the Museum collections illustrating the same.

A large number of gifts of works of art and collections in natural history were received. The members of the institute contributed seven thousand six hundred and seventy-eight dollars and two cents ($7,678.02) for the purchase of Museum collections.
