The following communication was received from Charles Guidet:

OFFICE OF CHARLES GUIDET, Contractor,
51 Chambers street,
NEW YORK, February 25, 1875.

To the Honorable the Common Council:

The Comptroller, in his reply of the 18th inst. to your resolution of inquiry as to the condition of the City debt, has gone out of his way to attack my business transactions and character as a business man. This attack permit me to answer.

In his reply the Comptroller states, judgments were given against the City of over $100,000, for paving with my patent pavement New Church street and South Fifth avenue; but he omitted to state that I also obtained a judgment against the City on 2d October, 1873, for $71,902, for paving First avenue. This latter claim was originally for $63,103, and not a special contract (as the Comptroller terms the other two claims). The Courts declared all my claims legal, and my prices fair and lawful; still, after forcing me into expensive and useless litigations, the Comptroller was not content with the judgments of the Courts as to the legality of my contracts—he persisting in further litigation, which only resulted in increased costs and expense to the City. The above three claims, amounting to $185,000, by means of inexcusable litigation, had been raised $14,468 beyond their original amount, and were running up at the rate of $35 per day. It was only after the appeals which the Comptroller insisted upon taking had been dismissed, and the executions were about being placed in the hands of the Sheriff, that the Comptroller paid the sums due upon the judgments, with the large accumulations of interests and costs, unnecessary burdens imposed by him upon the City.

In his reply above referred to, the Comptroller further states: "A bid for laying similar pavement in Newark was made by the same Guidet at $4.07 per square yard." I have already answered this attack: also the one in reference to the validity of my letters patent, in my letter of September 5, 1873, to the late Mayor Havemeyer. It is sufficient to say that the pavement referred to, was not similar to that laid in South Fifth avenue, and that my bid for this paving was not $4.07 per square yard, as stated by the Comptroller. In both of these particulars the Comptroller is entirely mistaken. As to the validity of my letters patent, I stated, in my letter of September 5, 1873, to the late Mayor Havemeyer, that a suit had been brought by me against an infringer in Newark. The suit was decided on December 30, 1873, by Judge Nixon, United States Circuit Court, District of New Jersey, in my favor, by a decree granting an injunction and an account. Since this decree I obtained judgment for damages against the infringer for nearly $28,000.

In the Comptroller's reply to your Honorable Board, he uses, in reference to my pavement, the phrase "exorbitant price of $6.00 per square yard." In reply, I venture to assert that any impartial business man, who understands anything about paving, and is aware of the cost of the stone blocks and the expense of laying them, to construct a solid pavement, will say that the price is fair and reasonable, and the cheapest pavement in New York City, considering its durability and safety for draught horses. The lowest bid that I ever made for laying the Guidet Improved Stone Pavement, outside of New York City, was $5.25; and my reasons for such lower price were, that in that instance I had facilities for doing the work, and, principally, that payments for the work would be promptly made. In New York City it is uncertain at what time pay-day will come, without tedious and expensive litigations to the contractor.

Respectfully, yours,

CHARLES GUIDET.

Which was referred to the Committee on Law Department, and ordered to be published in the CITY RECORD.

The following communication was received from the Department of Public Works:

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS,
COMMISSIONER'S OFFICE,
Room 19, City Hall,
NEW YORK, February 23, 1875.

To the Honorable the Board of Aldermen:

GENTLEMEN—In compliance with a resolution adopted by your Honorable Body on the 4th instant, requesting a report as to the names of all streets, avenues, or public places in this City in which more than double tracks are laid by one or more railroad companies, etc., I have the honor to submit the report of the Superintendent of Incumbrances, and from such examination as I have been enabled to make in the midst of routine business of pressing importance, I concur in the suggestions therein contained, and submit them for your further consideration.

Very respectfully,

GEO. M. VAN NORT,
Commissioner of Public Works.

BUREAU OF INCUMBRANCES,
NEW YORK, February 23, 1875.

Hon. GEORGE M. VAN NORT,
Commissioner of Public Works:

SIR—I have the honor to make the following report relating to streets, avenues, and public places in the City of New York, wherein more than two railroad tracks are laid, viz:

Avenue A—

There is on Avenue A, between Twenty-second and Twenty-third streets, three tracks, one of which is a side track used by the Central Cross-town Railroad Company, and no particular impediment to public travel.

Bowery—

On Bowery there are three tracks from Catharine to Pell street, and three tracks from Grand to Broome street, and four tracks from Broome street to Sixth street. Public travel will require all the tracks now laid in the Bowery (from Broome street to Sixth street) during the continuation of freight cars running over the road.

Canal Street—

On Canal street there are two centre tracks from Broadway to Hudson street, and one single track from Wooster street to West Broadway (on south side), and also a single track on the north side of Canal street from Church to Sullivan street. The side track should be removed, and the cars of the Broadway and Seventh Avenue Railroad could run upon the centre track of the Sixth and Eighth avenue railroads. These side tracks in Canal street seriously impede public travel.

Christopher Street—

On Christopher street, near West street, there are three single tracks; two of them are used by the Christopher and Tenth Street Railroad Company, and the other by the Central Cross-town Railroad Company.

Centre Street—

On Centre street, from Tryon Row to Duane street, there are four tracks; and from Duane to Franklin street there are three tracks; also, between Franklin and White streets there are switches or turn-outs.

All the tracks exceeding two, in this street, should be removed for the convenience of public travel.

City Hall Square—

On City Hall square (opposite the Register's Office), there are eight tracks, covering nearly the whole square from curb to curb.

The following lines of cars pass over these tracks:

Third avenue to Harlem.
Fourth avenue to Grand Central Depot.
Madison avenue.
Bleecker street and Fulton Ferry.
Avenue B, Dry Dock and East Broadway.
Avenue D.
Lexington avenue.

Eighth Avenue—

On Eighth avenue, from Forty-eighth to Fifty-first street, there are three tracks and twenty switches or turn-outs to the depot and stable on each side of said avenue. These tracks, turn-outs, and switches are used exclusively by the Eighth Avenue Railroad Company. There is also a single track in Fiftieth street, west of Eighth avenue, used by said Company.

There is also a single unused track on Eighth avenue, from Horatio street to Fourteenth street, which should be removed.

Fourth Avenue—

On Fourth avenue, from Fourteenth street to Twenty-third street, there are four tracks; from Twenty-sixth to Thirty-second street there are three tracks; and from Thirty-third to Thirty-fourth street there are four tracks. In front of the depot of the Fourth Avenue Railroad Company on Fourth avenue, between Thirty-second and Thirty-third streets, there are laid six switches or turn-outs.

All tracks in excess of two on the avenue should be removed.

Forty-second Street—

On Forty-second street, between Lexington and Fourth avenues, there are three tracks, one of which should be removed.

Fourteenth Street—

On Fourteenth street, between Avenues A and B, there are six tracks and eight turn-outs and switches, used by the Dry Dock and East Broadway Railroad Company.

Franklin Square—

In Franklin square (in Pearl street) there are three tracks from Oak street to Peck slip; also, three tracks on Peck slip, from Pearl to South street.

Grand Street—

On Grand street, between Tompkins and East streets, there are eleven tracks; between Mangin and Tompkins streets there are seven tracks; between Mangin and Goerick streets there are four tracks.

The following lines of cars pass over this street: Grand, Vestry, and Desbrosses street.
Grand and Forty-second street.
Grand and Courtlandt street.

Madison Avenue—

On Madison avenue, from Seventy-second to Seventy-fourth street, there are three tracks (two tracks and a side track); the side track is not used, and should be removed from the avenue.

Ninth Avenue—

On Ninth avenue, between Fifty-third and Fifty-fifth streets, there are three tracks, and used exclusively by the Ninth Avenue Railroad Company. There is also on said avenue five turn-outs or switches to depot, and also a track from Eighth avenue eastwardly on Fifty-fourth street.

Park Row—

On Park Row, from Frankfort to Spruce street, there are five tracks and one turn-out in front of New York Times and Tribune offices; there are four tracks between Spruce and Beekman streets, and four tracks below Beekman street, and in front of the New Post-office, and eleven tracks from New Post-office to Ann street; one track is laid on or near the cross-walk in front of the New York Herald Building, and its use in its present location, impedes public travel, is dangerous to life and limb, and a nuisance generally, and should be immediately removed.

Seventh Avenue—

On Seventh avenue, between Fiftieth and Fifty-first streets, there are two tracks and thirteen turn-outs or switches, used exclusively by the Broadway and Seventh Avenue Railroad Company; also, a track running from Seventh avenue eastwardly on Fifty-first street to Depot.

Sixth Avenue—

On Sixth avenue, between Forty-third and Forty-fourth streets, there are three tracks used by the Sixth Avenue Railroad Company; also, a track from Sixth avenue, on Forty-third street, with eight switches, to depot; and a track on Forty-fourth street, with five switches, to depot.

Second Avenue—

There are now laid upon Second avenue, between Sixty-first and Sixty-second streets, three tracks; and between Sixty-second and Sixty-fourth streets, four tracks; and between Sixty-fourth and Sixty-fifth streets, three tracks. There are six switches or turn-outs (from Sixty-first to Sixty-fifth street) on the west side of said avenue; and five switches or turn-outs on the east side of said avenue. All of said tracks, switches, or turn-outs are used exclusively by the Second Avenue Railroad Company. The Company have also a side track on Sixty-fourth street.

Tenth Avenue—

On Tenth avenue and Fifty-fourth street there are two tracks and eight turn-outs or switches used by the Central Park, North and East River Railroad Company. Across Tenth avenue, between Thirty-first and Thirty-second streets, there are eight tracks used by the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad Company; also, on Tenth avenue, between Twenty-seventh and Thirtieth streets, there are three tracks. The side tracks could be disposed of without injury to the road owning the same.

Third Avenue—

There are on Third avenue, from Sixty-fifth to Sixty-sixth street, three tracks and thirteen switches or turn-outs to depot, used by Third Avenue Railroad Company; also, a track or turn-out from Third avenue along Sixty-sixth street; also, two turn-outs near Sixty-seventh street.

Thirty-fourth Street—

There are on Thirty-fourth street, near East river, seven railway tracks, and four switches or turn-outs, and are used by the Avenue D, Fourth avenue, and Twenty-third street lines.

Whitehall Street—

On Whitehall street, from Front to South street, there are seven railroad tracks, and are used by the Central Park, North and East River Railroad, Eastern and Western Division, and South Street Railroad.

On West street, from Christopher to West Tenth street, there are four tracks; and from West Tenth to West Eleventh street, there are three tracks. Two tracks on this street are sufficient for local travel.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

REPORTS.

The Committee on Salaries and Offices, to whom was referred the annexed petition of the United Order of American Carpenters and Joiners, asking his Honor the Mayor and the Common Council of the City of New York to furnish them with employment, respectfully

REPORT:

That the petition comes to your Committee, indorsed as follows: "February 5, 1875.—The Mayor, with every disposition to relieve deserving mechanics and workmen now out of employment, regrets his inability to comply with the request within made." And unfortunately for the United Order of American Carpenters and Joiners, the same is true of the Common Council. Your Committee are unable to obtain any knowledge that the City gives employment to a single carpenter or joiner. It does know, however, that the Common Council controls only one single appointment out of the almost innumerable number of City employees, and that one is its own Clerk. It has not, directly or indirectly, the appointment of any other City official.

Your Committee deeply sympathize with the unemployed and suffering mechanics and laborers, and would gladly ameliorate their condition, did their ability in any degree equal their inclinations to serve them. They are, however, in consequence of existing State laws imposing disabilities upon the corporate authorities of this City, reluctantly compelled to state these humiliating facts, and to ask that your Committee be discharged from the further consideration of a subject over which the Common Council have no control.

WM. L. COLE,
PETER SEERY,
JOHN ROBINSON,

Committee on Salaries and Offices.

The President put the question whether the Board would agree with said report.

Which was decided in the affirmative.
