MAYOR ADAMS' STATEMENT ON RESILIENT EDGEMERE COMMUNITY PLAN

NEW YORK – New York City Mayor Eric Adams today released the following statement after the New York City Council Land Use Committee and Subcommittee on Landmarks, Public Sitings, and Dispositions voted to advance the “Resilient Edgemere” community plan:

“With the Resilient Edgemere community plan, my administration is delivering hundreds of affordable homes, urgent resiliency upgrades, and critical neighborhood infrastructure investments — an important step forward for residents of Edgemere, the Rockaways, and the entire city. I want to thank Councilmember Brooks-Powers and Speaker Adams for working with us so closely to advance this plan, and I look forward to continued partnership with the speaker and the Council to tackle our affordable housing crisis, equip our neighborhoods for a changing climate, and help our city recover from the pandemic.”
