² The Special Victims Unit particularly the Child Abuse Units, receives many referrals as a result of mandatory reporting from multiple stakeholders (i.e. educators, medical staff, District Attorneys, etc). Many of these referrals are duplicates or improperly referred. For those referrals that are crimes and not duplicates or improperly referred, an official complaint report is prepared with a designated crime type and it becomes a case. This category is considered an intake queue of referrals that is reviewed and identified as duplicative or non-criminal and therefore not a case.

Individuals entered into SOMU’s database fall into three levels (1, 2, 3). Only those at level 1 are eligible to be removed from the database, either after 20 years or upon death.

⁴ The Special Victims Unit consists of administrative personnel, including those in the Training Unit, Nightwatch, CompStat Case Review Team, and Law Enforcement/Instant Response Tracking Desk. These individuals are not responsible for case work.
