HEALTH DEPARTMENT OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK,
BUREAU OF VITAL STATISTICS,
NEW YORK, January 6, 1877.

W. DE F. DAY, M. D., Sanitary Superintendent and Register:

SIR—500 deaths were reported to have occurred in this city during the week ending Saturday, January 6, 1877, which was an increase of 37 as compared with the number reported the preceding week, and 47 less than were reported during the corresponding week of 1876.

The actual mortality for the week ending December 30 was 482, which is 54 less than the number which occurred during the corresponding week of the past five years, and represents an annual death-rate of 23.43 per 1,000 persons living, the population estimated at 1,069,370.

The increase in the mortality of the past compared with the previous week, was from the following causes, viz.: Scarletina, 13; puerperal diseases, 2; diarrhoeal diseases, 1; alcoholism, 6; phthisis pulmonalis, 5; pneumonia, 2; diseases of the brain and nervous system, 22; and Bright's disease and nephritis, 7.

Small-pox decreased 1, measles 2, diphtheria 7, whooping cough 2, cancer 3, bronchitis 7, diseases of the heart 7, marasmus and scrofula 2. There were 112 deaths of children under 1 year, 145 under 2 years, 190 under 5 years, and 36 of persons 70 years old and more. 244 of the deaths reported for the week were in houses containing 4 families and more, 142 in houses containing 3 families and less, 95 in institutions, 9 in hotels and boarding-houses, and the balance in the streets, rivers, etc.

The mean temperature for the week was 19.7 degrees Fahr., with a range of 23 degrees; the mean humidity was 89, saturation being represented by 100; the mean reading of the barometer was 29.926 inches; the amount of rain-fall was 0.78 inch, and the number of miles traveled by the wind was 1,456 miles.

The annual death-rate per 1,000 persons living of the estimated or enumerated population, according to the most recent returns of Baltimore, was 27.80; Richmond, 22.23; Philadelphia, 20.67; Cleveland, 18.61; Charleston, 27.61; Cincinnati, 15.74; Boston, 22.95; Chicago, 23.40; St. Louis, 14.78; Dayton (monthly), 14.33; Milwaukee, 24.76; Knoxville, 15.69; Providence, 19.6; New Haven, 19.4; London (weekly), 21.6; Liverpool, 25.7; Glasgow, 22; Edinburgh, 23; Dublin, 23.1; Belfast, 22; Calcutta, 31.9; Bombay, 26.2; Madras, 36; Paris, 24.5; Brussels, 21.3; Amsterdam, 27.7; Rotterdam, 24.5; The Hague, 31.8; Copenhagen, 21; Stockholm, 28.9; Christiania, 22.4; Berlin, 24.5; Breslau, 28.6; Munich, 35.9; Vienna, 24.5; Rome, 26.6; Buda Pesth, 35.3; Naples, 31.7; Turin, 19.8; Alexandria, 54.4.

The accompanying table of the principal causes of death by months, which actually occurred in this city during the year 1876, will prove interesting in showing the effect of temperature upon diseases—that is to say, at certain months of the year some diseases are more prevalent and prove more fatal than at others; for instance, the month of January was one of the most fatal months to persons suffering with small-pox, diphtheria, membranous croup, and puerperal diseases; February to those who had small-pox and whooping cough; March to measles, puerperal diseases, phthisis pulmonalis, bronchitis, pneumonia, apoplexy, Bright's disease and nephritis, and persons seventy years old and more; April to scarlatina; May to typhus fever; June to suicides; July to diarrhoeal diseases, alcoholism, scrofula and marasmus, tubercular meningitis and hydrocephalus, encephalitis and infantile convulsions, diseases of the brain and nervous system, drowning, sunstroke, and diseases of children under 5 years of age; August to suicides; September to typhoid fevers, and December to cancer and disease of the heart. The actual mortality for the year 1876 was 29,152, of which 7,170 were under 1 year, 10,692 under 2 years; 14,208, or 48.7 per cent. of the total were under 5 years, and 1,739 were persons 70 years old and more. The month of July, however, is the unhealthiest month of the year, having caused 4,164 deaths, and is especially destructive to children under 5 years, and particularly those suffering from diarrhoeal complaints; the number under 5 years that died during this month was 2,708, of which 1,713 were from diarrhoeal diseases; August and March following next, with 2,750 and 2,729 deaths, respectively; the former month caused 1,572 deaths in children under 5 years, of which 805 were from diarrhoeal diseases, and the latter month caused 1,238 deaths of children under 5 years, of which but 34 were from diarrhoeal diseases. Hence, while the winter months produced a very small number of deaths from these causes, they contributed largely to the excess in the summer mortality. Most prominent of all the causes of death for the year, phthisis pulmonalis, or consumption, stands first on the mortality list, 4,194 persons having died from this dreadful disease, which has as yet baffled all medical skill for its cure. This disease was most fatal in the month of March, and least fatal in June, having caused 415 deaths in the former and 309 in the latter month. Following in numerical order are diarrhoeal diseases, which caused 3,782 deaths, of which 3,412 were children under 5 years of age. Diseases of the brain and nervous system caused 2,664; pneumonia, 2,542; diphtheria, 1,750; bronchitis, 1,214; Bright's disease and nephritis, 1,132, and disease of the heart, 993, or 62.67 per cent., or more than 3-5ths of the entire yearly mortality was from these 8 diseases.

The deaths, as they are distributed by wards, according to the table here presented, will also prove instructive in showing the effects of density of the population and overcrowding upon the mortality. Thus, it will be seen that in the Fifteenth Ward, with a population—according to the State census, taken in June, 1875—of 25,543, the total deaths were 467, while the Fourteenth Ward, with a smaller area, and a population of 26,471, had 733 deaths, or with but 928 more inhabitants, it had 266 more deaths. The deaths by wards, according to the table here presented:

First.....	14,209	445	Twelfth.....	59,029	2,193

This total includes 17 deaths in institutions in the First Ward, 125 in the Third, 1 in the Fourth, 14 in the Fifth, 19 in the Sixth, 3 in the Seventh, 2 in the Eighth, 127 in the Ninth, 4 in the Tenth, 228 in the Eleventh, 1,001 in the Twelfth, 1 in the Thirteenth, 7 in the Fourteenth, 20 in the Fifteenth, 25 in the Sixteenth, 10 in the Seventeenth, 9 in the Eighteenth, 2,181 in the Nineteenth, 24 in the Twentieth, 723 in the Twenty-first, 174 in the Twenty-second, 39 in the Twenty-third, and 1 in the Twenty-fourth Ward of the mortality for the year.

Of the 315 deaths from small-pox for the year, 204 were in the Nineteenth Ward, 17 in the Sixth, 15 in the Eighth, 11 in the Twenty-second; of the 362 measles, the Nineteenth Ward furnished the greatest number (84); the Twenty-second, 40; the Twentieth and Twenty-first, 31 and 33 respectively; the Seventeenth and Nineteenth furnished the most deaths from scarlatina, 102 each; the Twentieth, 74, and the Eleventh, 69; diphtheria was most fatal in the Twenty-second Ward, with 221 deaths, the Nineteenth with 198, Twentieth with 135, and Seventeenth with 132; following in order, croup caused 59 deaths in the Seventeenth Ward, 53 in the Twenty-second, and 52 each in the Eleventh and Nineteenth Wards; typhus fever caused 4 deaths in the Twenty-first ward, 3 in the Twelfth, and 2 each in the Fifth, Seventeenth, and Eighteenth; typhoid fever caused 37 deaths in the Nineteenth Ward, 25 each in the Twelfth, Seventeenth, and Twenty-second, and 21 in the Twentieth; yellow fever caused but one death, and that was in the Eighteenth Ward; cerebro-spinal fever caused 21 deaths in the Nineteenth Ward, 11 in the Twentieth, 10 in the Twenty-second, and 9 in the Twelfth; diarrhoeal diseases caused 647 deaths in the Nineteenth, 331 in the Twenty-second, 283 in the Twelfth, 308 in the Twentieth, 278 in the Seventeenth, and 216 in the Eleventh.

There were 2,290 still-births registered during the year, of which 1,274 were males and 986 females; 1,582 fathers, and 1,495 mothers were foreign, and 561 fathers and 669 mothers were native born; the nativity of 147 fathers and 126 mothers was unknown or not stated. The ninth month of foetal existence was the most numerous, 1,136 having been born at this period of utero-gestation.

23,744 children born alive were registered, of which 23,403 were white and 344 colored; 12,114 were males and 11,550 females; 14,709 had both parents foreign and 4,761 had both native born. The greatest number of children born by a foreign mother was 19 and the highest number by a native born mother was 15. The highest number of births were reported in August, 2,188, and the least in April, 1,708.

The number of marriages for the year was 7,099, of which 4,211 males and 3,487 females were foreign, and 2,712 males and 3,435 females were native born. 73 males were married the third time and but 3 the fourth, and 33 females were married the third time and none the fourth. 6,919 males and 6,926 females were white and 180 males and 173 females were colored. 7 white females married colored men. The highest number of marriages were registered in October, 735, and the least in July, 471; but about two-thirds of the births and marriages which take place in this city are reported to this Bureau and particulars of interest relating to those reported will be found in the accompanying table.

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC PARKS.

Abstract of proceedings for the week ending January 6, 1877.

MEETING, JANUARY 3, 1877.

The Superintending Architect was directed to prepare and submit specifications for a temporary wooden bridge and entrance porch to be erected at the south end of the Museum of Natural History building.

The Superintending Architect was directed to prepare and submit an estimate, to an amount not exceeding $3,000, on account of the final payment on the contract of Mr. John Mahoney, for plastering the Museum of Natural History building; and also an estimate, to an amount not exceeding $2,000, on account of the contract with Mr. J. V. Donovan, for carpenter work at the same building. Payment was authorized to be made Mr. Michael Cummings for services with team rendered in the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Wards, during November and December, 1876.

Mr. John Taylor Johnston, President of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and Mr. D. Huntington, President of the National Academy of Design, reported that they had examined the bust of Mazzini, by Mr. Turini, artist, offered to be presented to the Department by a committee of Italian residents, and that, although not a work of the highest excellence, it is worthy of acceptance by the Department.

The bust was then, on motion, accepted, to be placed at such point on Central Park, to be designated by the Landscape Architect, as the rules will allow, and the Superintendent was directed to prepare the necessary foundation.

A communication was received from Mr. Thomas Rae and other owners of land embraced within the assessment limits for the paving of Third avenue, from Westchester avenue to the northern boundary of the Twenty-third Ward, protesting against assessing on the property benefited by said work more than one-half the cost thereof, together with a brief of the laws relating to said subject, prepared by Mr. J. R. Marvin, counsel for said owners. Referred to the Counsel to the Corporation.

The contract was awarded the Harlem Gas-light Company for lighting the lamps in the portion of the city mentioned in their proposal, heretofore received, from January 1, 1877, to April 30, 1877, both days inclusive. The New York and the Metropolitan Gas-light Companies were notified that should they continue to light the lamps heretofore lighted by them they would be paid at the same rates as they are paid for the street-lamps, until further action by the Board.

Arrangements for the purchase of the Swedish school-house at the grounds of the late Exposition were approved, and the removal of the same to such point on the Central Park as the Landscape Architect shall designate, the cost thereof not to exceed $1,000, was authorized.

The following resolutions were adopted, viz.:

I.

Directing the filing of the maps and profiles of Webster avenue and adjoining streets, Fordham avenue, and streets around Woodlawn Cemetery, as follows:

Resolved, That under and by virtue of the powers conferred upon the Commissioners of the Department of Public Parks, by chapters 329 and 604 of the Laws of 1874, and chapter 436 of the Laws of 1876, the said Commissioners do hereby lay out the streets, roads and avenues within that part of the city of New York lying north and east of a line commencing at the termination of the southerly line of One Hundred and Fifty-fifth street, at or in the Hudson river, running thence easterly along said southerly line of One Hundred and Fifty-fifth street, and a prolongation of said line to the middle of Harlem river, and running thence southerly along the middle of the said Harlem river to the Sound, north of Randall's Island, of the width, extent, direction and grades that the said streets, roads and avenues are shown upon three similar maps or plans, and profiles, dated "New York, December 30, 1876," and signed "J. James R. Croes, Civil and Topographical Engineer, Department of Public Parks," the same seeming to the said Commissioners, or a majority of them, most conducive to the public interests; and they do designate as streets of the first class, such streets, roads and avenues as are shown on said plans by red color, the same being such as in the judgment of said Commissioners are, or may be needed for the convenience of the general public, either as main routes of travel, or for drainage; and they do designate as streets of the second class, such streets, roads and avenues as are shown on said plans by yellow color, the same being such as in the judgment of said Commissioners are, or may be needed for the use or convenience of the inhabitants of certain areas or districts, as thoroughfares, but which are not main routes of travel; and they do discontinue and close such portions of streets, roads, and avenues as are shown on said plans by india ink shading; and they do hereby designate and direct William R. Martin, the President, and one of the members of said Board of Commissioners, to certify and file said three similar plans and profiles as provided by law.

II.
