Keep Your Eyes on the Pies

Stock Ownership*

(* of individual stocks. Public servants may own ANY amount of stock in ANY company, if it is held in a mutual fund, pension, or deferred compensation plan.)

- Public servants MAY own stock in ANY publicly traded company, BUT if they own:
- >$10K of a company that does business with their agency, they must RECUSE from taking any official action affecting the interest
- <$10K of a company that does business with their agency, they must DISCLOSE if taking any official action that affects the interest
- Owning >$55K or 5% of a publicly traded company that does business with one's City agency is prohibited without a Board Order.

Don't let Chapter 68 take you pie surprise when it comes to stock ownership. As far as the pie can see, City employees can own stocks. But how much of a slice requires disclosure and recusal? Depends on how much City business is baked into that crust. Find out more on our website.

Second Course

Ethics Over Easy-Ownership Interests

Along with pies, jokes are Alex's favorite side dish. But will Clare let him ruin the meal? Find out in with this hilariously informative take on who can own what in City government.
