The Honorable Michael R. Bloomberg

THE CITY OF NEW YORK
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR
NEW YORK, N.Y. 10007

September 2006

Dear Friends:

It is a pleasure to extend greetings to the readers of the National Protocol Directory 2007.

The cosmopolitan character of New York City gives our residents a great variety of perspectives and encourages us to appreciate the value of our neighbors' experiences. Therefore, it is no surprise that the international community feels at home in the Big Apple, a place that draws its vitality from its ethnic, cultural, and social diversity. We are proud of our positive relationships with cities and nations around the world, and look forward to strengthening these bonds as our City continues to prosper.

On behalf of the City of New York, I am pleased to provide this valuable protocol resource to members of the diplomatic community, government officials, and private citizens.

Sincerely,

Michael R. Bloomberg
Mayor

Commissioner Marjorie B. Tiven

NEW YORK CITY COMMISSION FOR THE UNITED NATIONS,
CONSULAR CORPS AND PROTOCOL
MAYOR'S OFFICE FOR PROTOCOL
100 GOLD STREET, 2ND FLOOR, NEW YORK, NEW YORK 10038

MARJORIE B. TIVEN
COMMISSIONER

LENI LIFTIN
DIRECTOR OF PROTOCOL

September 2006

Dear Friends:

New York is the most international city, home to foreign nationals from every country in the world. With the support of Mayor Michael R. Bloomberg, the City is host to the largest diplomatic community in the world including the United Nations, 192 permanent missions to the United Nations, and 105 consulates. In addition, New York's rich international heritage and strong cultural presence attract hundreds of thousands of visitors from around the world each year. The Gates - Project for Central Park, New York 1979-2005, the gorgeous artistic installation by Christo and Jeanne-Claude, brought bright saffron to the winter landscape and crowds into Central Park, even on the coldest days.

The Mayor's Office for Protocol is pleased to produce the National Protocol Directory. It is used by diplomats and government agencies and individual citizens in New York City and all over the United States. This updated 2007 edition is an even more valuable resource and guide.

Sincerely,

Marjorie B. Tiven
Commissioner

PREFACE

The National Protocol Directory 2007 is prepared by the Office for Protocol of the New York City Commission for the United Nations, Consular Corps and Protocol. It includes listings of United States Government offices, protocol offices throughout the fifty states and territories, United Nations missions, embassies, and consulates.

Great effort was made through telephone calls and correspondence to keep the listings in the Directory accurate and current. Changes of which we were not informed or that may have occurred after printing will not be noted.

All communications should be directed to this office, the address of which is found on the Update and Order Forms in the back of this book.

For additional information, please visit our homepage on the New York City website at www.nyc.gov/international. In addition, dial 311, the Citizen Service Center, for responses to inquiries in over 170 languages.

THE SISTER CITY PROGRAM OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK

By Marjorie B. Tiven

New York City may be the most international city in the world. It is host to the United Nations, 192 Permanent Missions to the United Nations and 105 Foreign Consulates. Among the population of 8.2 million, thirty-six percent were born in another country. In the public school population of 1.1 million there are students from 198 countries — more countries than there are United Nations Permanent Missions.

How does such a city implement “Sister Cities,” a cross-cultural program whose origins emphasize a belief in strong, responsive local government and faith in people-to-people exchanges to help build world peace? In the administration of Mayor Michael R. Bloomberg, the Sister City Program of the City of New York (SCP) did it with theme-based summit meetings for city officials and representatives from communities and the private sector, and virtual people-to-people exchanges for children ages 8 to 11.

Summits The most recent summit meeting was “Strategies for Public Art” to address how cities produce public art in held February 2005. Previous SCP summits in the Bloomberg administration were “Rebuilding International Tourism” in February 2003, “Meeting the Challenges of Terrorism and Crime,” in October 2003, and “Transforming Government through Technology” in June 2004.

The Summits provide unique opportunities for in-person interaction among New Yorkers and international citizens with common municipal interests. For example, the Public Art Summit brought together individuals who are responsible for public art in the London Underground, the Tokyo subway system, and New York City transit. The master list of delegates with contact information is always one of the most valuable products.

The Public Art Summit was timed to coincide with the February 2005 temporary installation of The Gates - Project for Central Park, New York 1979-2005 by world renowned artists Christo and Jeanne-Claude. Since it took the artists 25 years to obtain the necessary approvals, the project served as both a case study in the challenges cities face for public art and an exciting attraction for international visitors. Ten cities participated: Beijing, Budapest, Cairo, Jerusalem, Johannesburg, London, Madrid, New York, Rome and Tokyo. Delegations consisted of artists and public art experts from cultural institutions, the private sector and government. The summit was designed to highlight as many participating cities as possible and to maximize interpersonal interaction among delegates.

Each delegation made a presentation about public art in their city by showing slide images of their environment and discussing the key issues they face. There was a lively international panel discussion "Public Art: Vision or Compromise?" about how to define a successful public art project and whether artists necessarily compromise to bring a public art project to fruition. It was professionally recorded as a web cast and is available on our website www.nyc.gov/sistercities.

A highlight of the conference was a special tour of The Gates in Central Park followed by a private audience with the artists Christo and Jeanne-Claude at the Loeb Boathouse. There were 24 international delegates and 24 New Yorkers rotated in 12 slots; 75 people attended the international panel; 200 people attended the reception and dinner. The evening reception and formal dinner were in the magnificent Italianate rotunda of the historic landmark Tweed Courthouse.

The Internet-based Educational Exchange Program (IEEP) Making friends with citizens from other countries and cultures is the essence of people-to-people exchange programs. Understanding that these friendships foster respect and mutual understanding and, ultimately more possibilities for a peaceful world, SCP devised a way for children ages 8 to 11 to make friends on-line with their peers in international cities through regular web-based exchanges — another way the Bloomberg

Administration is using technology to bridge cultural divides. Virtual exchanges on the internet have the potential to connect people in all sister cities at a relatively low cost. They allow young people to work together on a common project as well as do something very “cool”— make new friends on-line with people from other countries.

SCP partnered with the New York City Department of Parks and Recreation and their Computer Resource Centers where students were already accessing computers after school. This successful partnership makes IEEP possible. We contracted with iEARN-USA, an established internet forum provider, to host the forum and guarantee a safe and secure place to communicate. We worked with all our Sister Cities to recruit schools. Schools from these cities have participated: Beijing, Budapest, Jerusalem, London, Madrid and Rome. The program is conducted in English.

In 2005-2006 the curriculum was urban parks. Participants talked about different aspects of an urban neighborhood park, from flora and fauna to playground equipment and sports facilities. They had the fun of using an “IEEP Global Citizen Passport,” styled like a country passport and “stamped” with sister city stamps upon completing a portion of the curriculum. Perhaps more important, they also talked about other things, like how to play “tag” the Chinese way vs. the American way. The curriculum was about parks but they learned about each other’s cultures and lifestyles as well.

All students created their dream park as a final project and posted them on the internet. In addition, New York and Beijing students created three-dimensional projects. Another end-of-year activity for the New York students was a rooftop party at The Arsenal in Central Park where students from the seven NYC Recreation Centers met one another for the first time. Their three dimensional projects, along with those from students from Beijing, were displayed for a month in a busy public space where many people viewed their work. The Beijing students transported their three dimensional dream park to New York by conventional mail and were prominently displayed alongside projects from the seven New York City Parks and Recreation Centers.

IEEP provides a unique opportunity for New York students to have positive experiences with students from other cultures and learn about similarities in their lives. International students are learning about New York from their peers, not from mass media and pop culture.

The Sister City Program of the City of New York was proud to receive the 2006 "Annual Innovation Award for Youth and Education" for IEEP from Sister Cities International.

The Honorable Marjorie B. Tiven is chief of protocol for the City of New York. She is also the commissioner of the NYC Commission for the United Nations, Consular Corps and Protocol, and treasurer of the Sister City Program of the City of New York.

IEEP students of Sorrentino, Queens send greetings to their Sister City friends during their launch party in October 2005.

Mayor Michael R. Bloomberg addresses participants in the Sister City summit, "Transforming Government Through Technology," in the historic Governor's Room in City Hall.
