Statement from Mayor de Blasio:

“The ‘Made in NY’ series nominated for the 2015 Primetime Emmy Awards yesterday are an important part of the fabric of our City, and I want to congratulate the talented men and women whose work on screen and behind the cameras have been recognized. These shows not only entertain us, but they play a vital role in our local economy, employing thousands of New Yorkers and supporting local businesses throughout the five boroughs. We’ll be cheering for all the ‘Made in NY’ nominees when the Emmys are handed out on September 20.”

Statement from Commissioner Cynthia López, Mayor’s Office of Media and Entertainment:

“This year’s Emmy nominations cap off a milestone season for episodic television in New York City – a record-breaking 46 series have been produced in the City this past season. The creative community in New York is unmatched, and our ‘Made in NY’ shows truly deserve each and every one of their Emmy nominations.”
