Police Department of the City of New York, No. 300 Mulberry Street, New York City. Hon. William L. Strong, Mayor, City of New York:

Sir—The Board of Police of the Police Department of the City of New York hereby respectfully submits a report of the operations and transactions of the Department and force, with such comments as the figures submitted seem to require, for the year ending December 31, 1894.

The Police Force.

Precinct Reports in Detail.

Thirty-fourth—Good, but dormitories cold in winter.
Thirty-fifth—Dormitories crowded, and insufficiently heated in cold weather.

There has been, on the part of the Board of Police, a regular and constant advocacy of the prudential policy of increasing the Police force of the district above the Harlem river, in the belief that its increased population and value of property requires an enlarged force. It is hardly possible, however, to provide suitable quarters for a much larger force without at the same time increasing the number of precincts and station-houses. The station-houses now occupied by the force are all old and improperly adapted to the needs of the present force.

The houses of the Thirty-first and Thirty-fifth Precincts are leased frame buildings, fairly well located, and perhaps the best that could at this time be procured, but they are not commodious enough for even the present force.

The Board, seeing the necessity of a larger force in the Morrisania District, was obliged to lease a building near the station-house of the Thirty-third Precinct in order to provide sleeping accommodations for such increased force, the old Town Hall being entirely inadequate for the

The station-house of the Thirty-fourth Precinct, at Tremont, is an old building, too small to shelter a large force, and ought to be replaced without delay by a new and better structure. In short, the facilities for the transaction of Police business above the Harlem river are not such as the growing interests of the district urgently demand.

Steps should be taken, with as little delay as practicable, to so divide the district that at least three more precincts could be added, even if the Police force were not correspondingly increased, for the reason that the distances between the several station-houses are now so great that a rapid concentration of the force in an emergency would be almost impossible. Perhaps as many (or a greater number) sub-stations would be temporarily sufficient for the purposes stated, but the rapid growth of the district would soon require the construction of substantial station-houses, and it does not seem a good economical policy to delay such construction any longer than legal requirements render necessary. render necessary.

BOARD OF SURGEONS.

The following table shows the sick time of the force by Precincts and Squads during the year, together with other results of the labor of the Surgeons of the Department. The first table shows the time lost by members of the force by reason of sickness, disabilities and injuries during the year. It will be seen that the time actually lost was 46,062 days—3.28 per cent. of the total days' time of the force. This is a decrease of 799 days' sick time, and 0.12 per cent. from the figures for 1893. The amount paid for sick time lost was $75,799.17, a decrease of $1,243.16. The allowance made for sick time lost during the year, by resolution of the Board of Police some time subsequent to recovery, aggregated the sum of $3,303.12, making the total sum so paid $78,836.29, an increase of $239.15:

The second table shows the number of the force on the sick list each day during the year. The daily average is 129, two less than in 1893. It will be found, however, that the average for the first three months of the year was considerable less than for the same period in 1893.

The death rate (about 1.46 per cent.) still remains extremely low in a body of men subjected to the exposure and irregularities of police life.

The following table shows the number of applicants for appointment as Patrolmen examined by the Surgeons during the year, the number of re-examinations, and the number examined after appointment and before entering the service. The total number examined in 1893 was 1,253.

Elsewhere in this report will be found a table of arrests for a series of years.

The number of arrests in the Fourth, Sixth, Tenth and Eleventh Precincts (contiguous territory east of Broadway, and covering less than one square mile of area) was 26,421 during the year, or 26.88 per cent. of the entire number of arrests made.

This is an increase of 1.21 per cent. over the arrests for 1893 in this district.

The increase in the number of arrests is 4,214, while in the entire city it is 11,808, thus showing the per cent. of increase in this district as compared with the remaining portion of the city to have been 35.68.

It will be noticed that the per cent. of arrests in the Eleventh Precinct alone was about 12 of the entire number. The figures for this precinct are worthy of more than ordinary attention.

At the close of the year there were 77 Patrolmen in the precinct. Assuming that number as the average for the year, no less than 153 persons were arrested by each Patrolman; more than 32 arrested persons each day passed into the station-house, were locked up in the cells, taken out and to the Police Courts, all of which involves a labor hardly conceivable to those unacquainted with the details of police work in connection with arrests.

The arrests for the entire year were 11,808 greater than in 1893, and 8,172 greater than in 1891, which latter year was distinguished for the largest number of arrests since the Department was organized.

By reference to the table of nativity of persons arrested it will be seen that 10,217 of this

EXCISE ARRESTS ON SUNDAY.

The following table, showing the number of arrests on Sundays for a series of years for violation of the excise law, and the very large increase in the number arrested, both on week days and Sundays, in 1894, is an interesting exhibit of the efforts of the Police to enforce that law. The total arrests for this offense in 1894, is 8,422, or 8.56 per cent. of the number of arrests for all offenses in the city. The average number of arrests on each Sunday during the year was 115. The average for each Sunday in the last half of the year was considerably in excess of the general average, and the average for the last quarter shows a great increase over the third quarter:

The great decrease in the number of lodgers in station-houses in the year 1894, as compared with former years, in view of the great business depression which kept large numbers of men unemployed, is accounted for only by the fact that early in the year measures were taken to arrest chronic station-house lodgers on the charge of vagrancy and confine them in the City institutions. Our report for 1892 shows no arrests for this offense in that year; in 1893 there were 2,517 persons arrested, and in 1894 the number arrested increased to 3,539. These figures naturally suggest a reference to the statistics of the Department having in charge the City's poor and indigent for verification of the above-stated belief.

The following table will show the number lodged in each station-house having proper accommodations, each month during the year:

MISCELLANEOUS STATISTICS.

The following schedules show the number of persons assisted by the Police, taken to the station-houses and thence to the various hospitals by ambulance, or sent to their homes, the number of reports made on various subjects and work performed in connection therewith, information relative to suicides, etc. This miscellaneous work of the Police force involves much patience and labor, which can hardly be estimated by mere figures, and is as important and necessary as any portion of a policeman's duty:

HOUSE OF DETENTION FOR WITNESSES.

The number of persons committed to, detained in and discharged from the House of Detention for Witnesses during the year 1894 will be found in the following table. Compared with the report for 1893 there will be found an increase of 113 in the number of persons committed and an increase of 2,300 $\frac{2}{3}$ in the number of days of confinement. The average time of confinement was $17\frac{214}{419}$ days, an increase as compared with last year. The average cost of maintenance (meals only) was \$13.14, an increase.

The names of the persons detained and other details were published in the quarterly reports of this Department.

BUREAU OF STEAM BOILER INSPECTION AND ENGINEERS.

The report of this Bureau shows the number of steam boilers examined, tested hydrostatically, and their condition, together with the number of applicants examined as to their qualifications as engineers to take charge of and operate stationary and portable steam boilers and engines in the City of New York; also the amount of money paid to the Treasurer of the Police Pension Fund, collected from owners of steam boilers for certificates of inspection.

For the year there have been 7,309 applicants examined for engineers' certificates, to take charge of and operate stationary and portable steam boilers and engines. Each applicant has been examined as to his experience, qualifications and knowledge of steam boilers and engines.

Of this number 6,866 passed a satisfactory examination and have been granted certificates, and 443 have been rejected.

The only casualties occurring during the past year were the following: On the night of February 25, Boiler No. 1, No. 2275, situated in the Potter Building, No. 38 Park Row, was burned on the crown sheet. Upon investigation by Boiler Inspector Philip H. Smith there was no evidence of there being low water, and the conclusion reached was that it was caused by using exhaust steam returning to the boiler, and the accumulated grease formed a coating on the sheet over the fire, which prevented the water from reaching the sheet, and the fire drew the sheet in.

March 15, Boiler No. 1, No. 407, situated in the Cosmopolitan Hotel, No. 129 Chambers street, was slightly burned and some of the bolts on crown sheet loosened by low water while in charge of Albert Frey, assistant engineer, who, it was charged, was under the influence of liquor. Complaint having been made against Engineer Frey by the proprietor, his license was suspended. Reported by Boiler Inspector Philip H. Smith.

On Monday, May 21, 1894, at 7.45 A. M., a portable steam-boiler, used for rock-drilling at Eagle avenue and Cedar place, exploded from an excessive pressure of steam and injured several persons. The boiler was, by the force of the explosion, carried upward and to a distance of 200 feet and landed upon the roof of a stable, crushing through the roof and two floors and into the aisle on the main floor.

The boiler is an upright tubular, 7 feet by 3½ feet diameter, and is registered as Boiler No.

The boiler is an upright tubular, 7 feet by 3½ feet diameter, and is registered as Boiler No. 477. It was tested by Warren Harrington, Boiler Inspector of this Department, on May 14, 1894, and a steam pressure of 80 pounds allowed.

Mr. Charles Fassett, a collector for Ebling's Brewery, and residing at No. 802 Eagle avenue, who says that he was talking to John Crowley, who was operating the boiler, about ten minutes before the explosion, says he saw the steam-gauge indicating upward of 100 pounds and an iron wrench hanging upon the lever of the safety-valve. He called Crowley's attention to the extraordinary pressure, and was answered: "Oh, that's all right; she can stand it." Fassett walked away, and had gone but a short distance when the explosion occurred.

The rupture started on the sheet at the left side of the fire-box, near the door, ripped up the front diagonally about seven inches to the crown sheet, then across along the line of rivets to a point opposite to where it started, then down to the place of beginning, tearing a hole about ten inches in diameter in the front sheet.

The boiler was owned, as shown by the records of this Department, by Louis De La Vergne, inches in diameter in the front sheet.

The boiler was owned, as shown by the records of this Department, by Louis De La Vergne, of Port Morris, and was being used at the place stated by William M. Myers, of Tremont. It was first tested by this Bureau for Frederick Erb, of No. 318 West Forty-ninth street, on June 15, 1885, and was allowed 100 pounds steam pressure. It was subsequently tested on the following dates:

October 2, 1885, for Bower & Combes, and allowed 100 pounds.

October 16, 1886, for Bower & Combes, and allowed 100 pounds.

October 14, 1887, for Bower & Combes, and allowed 100 pounds.

April 18, 1888, for Bower & Combes, and allowed 100 pounds.

February 20, 1889, for same owner, and pressure reduced to 80 pounds.

February 18, 1890, for same owner, and allowed 80 pounds.

March 10, 1891, it was used for hoisting purposes on the dock at foot of East One Hundred and Thirty-eighth street by the De La Vergne Refrigerating Company, after which it was purchased by Louis De La Vergne and tested on March 28, 1892, and allowed 80 pounds, and again on March 27, 1893, and allowed 80 pounds, and was tested on May 14, 1894, as stated above.

The Engineer last licensed for this hoiler was William C. Paler with

The Engineer last licensed for this boiler was William C. Baker, who received a third-class license on May 23, 1893. John Crowley, the person in charge, and who was responsible for the explosion, was not licensed for this boiler, but had previously, on June 13, 1893, received a certificate to operate a portable boiler for Collins & Gillis, contractors. His record as an engineer is as follows:

First examination, June 13, 1892, having previously fired on locomotives for two years and for a year on stationary boilers on David's Island. He passed a fair examination, and was granted a third-class certificate to operate a portable locomotive tubular boiler and drills at One Hundred and Fifty-eighth street and Mott avenue for W. G. Leeson. October 5, 1892, his certificate was transferred to a portable upright tubular boiler and engine for Collins & Gillis, at Westchester avenue and One Hundred and Fifty-eighth street, and on June 13, 1893, was again transferred to a locomotive boiler and drills at Union avenue and One Hundred and Fiftieth street.

Crowley was placed under arrest, under section 360 of the Penal Code, which makes it a misdemeanor to carry a pressure of steam over and above the amount limited by law.

Boiler Inspection and the Licensing of Engineers.

In the report of this Department for the year 1893 the inadequacy of the present method of boiler inspection was commented upon and recommendation made for a change in the laws to improve the system, to the end that protection to life and property be made more secure, and the danger from such casualties as boiler explosions reduced to a minium.

While there were several bills presented to the last Legislature touching upon the matter of boiler inspection and licensing of Engineers, none seemed to meet with approval and all failed of passage; therefore it is again respectfully submitted that in consequence of the danger to life and property attendant upon the operation of steam-boilers, it would seem that no difficulty should be encountered in proper efforts to have them legally regulated as to their proper and careful construction and inspection, as well as to licensing those who are to have charge of and operate them, more especially in localities thickly populated, and where an explosion of a steam-boiler would be extremely disastrous.

As a matter of comparison between the different places in the United St.

As a matter of comparison between the different places in the United States where there are inspection laws and where no legal supervision exists, it will be noted that the casualties resulting from boiler explosions are as one to a hundred. If the importance of this matter were properly and forcibly impressed upon the consideration of those selected to make the laws, and more stringent safeguards drawn around the laws and ordinances now in force, a much greater percentage would be shown in favor of legal supervision.

The boiler inspection laws now in operation in the cities of New York and Brooklyn, so far as

The boiler inspection laws now in operation in the cities of New York and Brooklyn, so far as the particular method of inspection is concerned, are the same as those existing in 1862, when not more than two thousand steam boilers were operated in the Metropolitan District, comprising the Counties of New York, Kings, Richmond and parts of Queens and Westchester, while now there are upward of eight thousand boilers in the City of New York alone.

At the time mentioned, and for some years after, the average pressure used to operate steam boilers was about fifty pounds to the square inch, whereas at present, owing to the advancement and improvement made in machinery and other devices necessary for steam operation have been so great, the average pressure carried will equal one hundred pounds to the square inch; and yet, withal, no legal advancement has been made in the matter of regulating the testing and inspection of boilers.

To be sure, reputable manufacturers and builders of steam-boilers take the necessary precaution in building boilers required to withstand this extra demand for increased pressure; but it is to guard against a class of firms that construct cheap work, taking all risks on the safety and security of the boilers they make, that more rigid laws should be enacted.

Every boiler should be subjected to a hydrostatic test before placed in actual operation, in manner following, and such test should be made at least once every year thereafter.

The boiler to be filled entirely full of water, a fire lighted in the furnace and the temperature of water brought to at least 150 degrees Fahr., when the boiler should be subjected to a hydrostatic pressure of one and one-half times the steam or working pressure to be allowed per square inch. After the test has been applied the inspector should go inside the boiler and make a thorough examination.

square inch. After the test has been applied the inspector should go inside the boiler and make a thorough examination.

In determining the working pressure for boilers that have been several years in use, the inspector should take into consideration the age and condition under which it has been operated, as well as the thickness, original strength, efficiency of riveted joints, etc., and make calculation between what was its safe working pressure when new and the pressure now desired, and he should make due allowance for deterioration.

Each boiler should have a steam-gauge that would correctly indicate one and one-half times the working pressure allowed, and one safety-valve of sufficient capacity, when open, to carry off all the steam the boiler could generate with all the other valves closed.

The blow-off pipe on horizontal tubular boiler when attached to the back connection, or combustion chamber, should be of ample size, but not to exceed two inches internal diameter, and should be of extra heavy pipe with malleable fittings and protected from the intense heat by a metal sleeve or other covering, and in the absence of such covering there should be a circulating pipe connection with the upper part of the boiler to give good circulation and eliminate the danger attending the dead end between the blow-cock and the boiler.

That a proper record of each boiler may be kept and that it could at all times be easily identified.

That a proper record of each boiler may be kept and that it could at all times be easily identified, a plate bearing the official record number of the boiler should be securely and permanently fastened to the boiler should be securely and permanently fastened to the boiler in a conspicuous place.

It should be made the duty of the engineer in charge of steam boilers to blow, or cause to blow, at least once each day, the safety-valve to insure its readiness for use. Provision should also be made requiring an engineer to go inside his boiler at least once in three months to cleanse the same and see that no accumulation of scale and that no corrosion had taken place.

These are mentioned as some of the provisions that should be embodied in a law, which should cover the necessary requirements more in detail, and which would surely meet the approval and ultimately result in the benefit of owners, steam users, engineers, and every one in any way concerned or interested in the use of steam or of safety to life and property.

TENEMENT-HOUSE SQUAD.

The Squad, consisting of I Sergeant, 2 Roundsmen and 42 Patrolmen, is detailed to the service of the Health Department of the City. They are paid by a special annual appropriation, though numbered among the regular uniformed Police force. The following schedule sets forth a portion of the work of the Squad. They are not exempted from the performance of Police duty when required in an emergency. During the year the Squad made 121 arrests:

ORDINANCE SQUAD.

ORDINANCE SQUAD.

The Police force of the Third Precinct (stationed at the City Hall) is known as the Ordinance Squad. Its duties are chiefly to make investigations on applications for licenses issued under direction of the Mayor. During the year 25,588 such investigations were made.

The regulation of hacks and carriages in the approach to and departure from places of amusement and public assemblages forms a portion of the duties of the Squad.

During the year the Squad arrested 250 persons, principally for violation of Corporation ordinances.

The number of messages transmitted by telegraph and telephone during 1894 exceed the number of the preceding year by 3,997. This number includes only messages in the "telegraph blotters" at the Central Office. The increase is considerable when it is borne in mind that by means of the additional telephone facilities a large number of messages were transmitted direct between the various stations.

An accurate record is made of all such messages at the sending and receiving stations. There are also many messages of a semi-official character transmitted requiring no record. It will, herefore, be observed that there has been a very material increase in this branch of the service.

During the year the work of placing wires underground for the Police Telegraph and Telephone systems was continued; 19 miles of cables were laid in the subways, containing from 2 to 62 conductors, or 273 ¼ miles of single conductor; over 3 miles of subsidiary conduits were constructed, leading from the subways to the police stations and other places, providing the necessary wiring for 32 stations north of Houston and Catherine streets and south of One Hundred and Sixteenth street, as follows:

Seventh, Flewarth, Twelfth, This contains the contains and contains the contai and Sixteenth street, as follows:

Seventh, Eleventh, Twelfth, Thirteenth, Fourteenth, Fifteenth, Sixteenth, Seventeenth, Eighteenth, Nineteenth, Twentieth, Twenty-first, Twenty-second, Twenty-third, Twenty-third Sub, Twenty-fourth, Twenty-fifth, Twenty-sixth, Twenty-seventh and Twenty-eighth Precincts; offices of Second, Third and Fourth District Police Court Squads; Bellevue, St. Vincent, New York, Presbyterian, Roosevelt and Flower Hospitals; office of Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children; residence of President Board of Surgeons; Houston Street Elevated Railroad Station.

The above-named stations were connected with the Central Department, and are now in operation underground, leaving but seven precincts to be connected to complete these systems, viz.: Twenty-ninth, Thirtieth, Thirty-first, Thirty-second, Thirty-third, Thirty-fourth and Thirty-fifth Precincts.

fifth Precincts.

The improvement in the working of this branch of the service, owing to these underground connections, and the perfect means of communication thus secured between the Central Department and the several stations and squads so equipped, equals, if it does not excel, any similar system in operation, and greatly facilitates intercommunication between the Police station-houses, Court squads, hospitals, and the public departments of the municipality, and especially between the officials at the Central Department and the places so connected. The several hospitals herein mentioned were connected with our telephone system by permission of the Board of Police, placing them in direct communication with the Central Department, so that Police stations could have an instantaneous means of obtaining ambulance service.

them in direct communictation with our telephone system by permission of the board of ronce, placing them in direct communictation with the Central Department, so that Police stations could have an instantaneous means of obtaining ambulance service.

The offices of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children were also connected with our telephone system. It was deemed essential that they should have direct connection with the precincts, as many of the children taken into custody by their officers are transferred to the Police stations for detention, and also as the services of their officers are frequently required, both at the Police stations and Police courts.

The residence of the President of the Board of Police Surgeons, No. 111 West Twelfth street, was also connected, so that he might be enabled to promptly assign and direct the Police Surgeons in the performance of duty.

Regarding telephone connection with the hospitals, it may be said formerly some of these were connected with Headquarters by telegraph (bell signal) overhead lines. These overhead lines had to be removed, and in making the change, as well as providing the hospitals with the necessary underground wiring, it was deemed advisable to also furnish telephone instruments in place of the bell signal code, thereby securing a more reliable means of communication, and at a very trifling increase in the cost of maintenance.

Summary of Underground Work—Showing the number of miles of cable length of conductors in operation at the present time, also a complete list of the Police stations and other places connected with the Central Department.

4½ miles of subsidiary conduits, constructed by the Police Department.

There are also 15 stations in the Central Department building, comprising the offices of the officials of the Department, connected with the telegraph bureau by telephone, and they have therefore a direct means of communication with the above-named stations.

During the year 15 miles of overhead police wires, and four Police Department poles were

During the past year an electric elevator was installed at the Central Department Building and placed in charge of this bureau.

The same is reported regarding the electric plant on board the police boat "Patrol," used for incandescent lighting purposes, and with search-light. The introduction of these improvements have been highly commended.

Signal Box System.

The signal box system in operation in the Thirty-first, Thirty-second, Thirty-third, Thirty-fourth and Thirty-fifth Precincts was given considerable attention during the year. The lines being very old, many transfers of wires had to be made, because of the removal of poles on which they were located. An additional box was added to the number in the Thirty-third Precinct at Oak Point, for the protection of Riker's Island.

Following is the number of boxes in each precinct, and the number of signals transmitted therefrom during the year:

Exchanges, Banks, Etc.

The lines and instruments connecting the various exchanges, banks, etc., with these head-quarters and with the police stations have worked satisfactorily. There are thirty-four such places connected with the police stations, and with but a few exceptions the wires connecting these places have been put in subways. A few banks and other institutions not so connected are in the upper portion of the city. They will eventually comply with the requirements in this respect.

It is intended during this year to supply the remaining precincts with the improved services herein referred to.

BUREAU OF ELECTIONS.

The following schedules show a portion of the work performed by the Bureau of Elections

The following schedules show a portion of the work performed by the leading the year:

The number of election districts in the city in 1894 was 1,141—decrease of one from the preceding year. The number of election officers in each election district were 4 Inspectors, 2 Poll Clerks and 2 Ballot Clerks.

The preparation of ballots and all the labor involved in the preliminaries of election in this city was smoothly and accurately accomplished, and no complaints were received relative to any failure to comply with any provision of the statutes governing elections, though the number of nominations to office by convention and by petition were largely in excess of any previous year.
