RESOLVED That the Design Commission, having considered designs for the construction of the FDNY Marine Company 9 Firehouse, Homeport Pier at Baltic Street, Stapleton, Staten Island, submitted by the Economic Development Corporation and the Fire Department, represented by exhibits 6835-O, P, Q, R & S of record in this matter, hereby gives to the same unanimous preliminary approval subject to (1) using a bright red glossy material for the upper portion, noting that the bright "fire engine" red color is critical to the building's success, and the proposed terra cotta color is unacceptable; (2) utilizing a different material for the white bottom portion; (3) restudying the signage and developing a standard using a sans serif font more in keeping with the graphics proposed for Engine Company 160 and Rescue Company 5's garage in Staten Island; (4) submitting a lighting plan; and (5) retrofitting catch basin inserts for the French drains to address the Department of Environmental Conservation's concerns. The Commission recommends that the architect explore porcelain enamel, which is high gloss, self cleaning and comes in large panels to minimize joints, or another material, such as Eternit's Swisspearl, with integral color (rather than a surface application) and cautioned against terra cotta, even in the custom red, as it tends to chip. The Commission commends the Fire Department, and notes that it looks forward to reviewing preliminary designs for the park, revised in consultation with the Department of Parks & Recreation, and an update on the development component when the Economic Development Corporation resubmits the Stapleton Waterfront for review in fall 2009.

Preliminary approval is conditioned upon submission of this project for final review and approval before February 23, 2011.
