RECHARGEABLE BATTERY RECYCLING REPORT SUMMARY

NEW YORK CITY COLLECTION LOCATIONS

The number of collection sites registered in the Call2Recycle® program in New York City increased from 3,240 at the end of 2008 to 3,658 at the end of 2009, an increase of 13%. Of these registered sites, there was a 75% increase in participation in the program (number of registered sites sending in at least one collection box for recycling) – up from 280 sites in 2008 to 489 in 2009. In addition, this led to a 50% increase in the number of collection boxes sent in for recycling in 2009 (1,000 boxes in 2008 to 1,562 in 2009).

We saw slight site growth of 4% from the retail sector in 2009, which makes up 87% of all New York City active sites. The largest site growth in 2009 was in the non-retail sector, which increased 135% (from 209 in 2008 to 493 in 2009). The increase in non-retail sites is directly attributed to the Department of Sanitation's "e-blast" promoting and encouraging Public Agencies to participate in the Call2Recycle program. That effort alone yielded an additional 207 non-retail sites enrolling in the program.

While most the majority of sites enrolled in the program are retail sites, the majority of batteries (54%) collected in 2009 originated from the non-retail locations.

COMPARISON OF 2006, 2007, 2008 AND 2009 RESULTS

For the calendar year 2009, total battery collections were 46,865 lbs, an increase of 7,713 lbs or 20% over the level achieved in 2008. Approximately 92% of the batteries returned through the Call2Recycle program in New York City are conforming rechargeable batteries. Call2Recycle designates conforming rechargeable batteries as Nickel Cadmium, Nickel Metal Hydride, Nickel Zinc, Lithium Ion, and Small Sealed Lead batteries weighing less than 11 lbs. Non-conforming materials collected through the program make up 8% of New York City collections (1,373 lbs), these items include non-rechargeable battery types, such as alkaline or lithium primary batteries.

The prevalent battery chemistry collected through the Call2Recycle program, both nationally and in New York City, is the Nickel-Cadmium (NiCd) battery chemistry (most commonly found in power tools, remote controlled toys, and medical equipment). However, due to its declining use in the marketplace, its percentage of total conforming battery chemistries has steadily decreased over the past four years in New York City, from 87% in 2005 to 57% in 2009. However, the absolute level of NiCds collected in the past four years remains constant at approximately 24,000 lbs as total collections have increased. The greatest increase came in the Lithium Ion battery chemistry. In 2009, New York City increased collections of Lithium Ion batteries by 92% from 2008 totals (3,673 lbs. in 2008 to 7,052 lbs. in 2009). This is consistent with market trends which have seen many power tool manufacturers offering a Lithium Ion power source, as well as the overall increase in usage and popularity of electronic devices powered by this battery type – i.e., laptop computers and cell phones.

In addition to diverting batteries for recycling, the Call2Recycle program offers participants the opportunity to responsibly recycle cell phones. In 2009, New York City participants recycled 7,512 cell phones. This is a 365% increase in the number of cell phones collected over the 2008 totals of 1,615 cell phones. Retail participants alone recycled 4,944 cell phones, which represents 66% of the 2009 totals for all of New York City. Although cell phone recycling is not specifically addressed in Local Law 97, it is nonetheless a positive addition!

COST OF COLLECTIONS

In 2009, Call2Recycle incurred recycling expenses of approximately $71,100 - a 14% increase from costs incurred in 2008. We attribute this cost increase to the additional number of retail locations that have signed up into the program in 2009. This figure includes purchasing, issuing and tracking boxes; shipping collection supplies to participating locations; transportation and shipping costs from participating sites to the recycling facility (average weight was 30 lbs. per box), and the costs associated with the actual recycling of the rechargeable batteries and other material.

REMAINDER OF REPORT

The remainder of this report includes the details associated with battery collections, the physical locations and types of materials collected, and also marketing materials from Call2Recycle's national and local education campaign for New York City.

2009 SUMMARY STATISTICS

RECHARGEABLE BATTERY RECYCLING REPORT New York City Collection Locations

Active Sites - 3,658

2009 DETAILED RESULTS – ALL LOCATIONS

The following pages provide a detailed look at activity from all NYC participating locations, including retailers, businesses, communities, and public agencies. This report includes site participation summary and pie chart, participation and return rates bar chart, yearly receipt totals bar chart, receipt chemistry breakdown, participation detail, deactivated sites, receipt summary and detail, and delimited data reports.

The delimited data reports are included as a tool for NYC staff, so they can import the recycling data from this document into an Excel spreadsheet. The fields are delimited and can be cut and pasted into a text document, which can then be imported in an Excel document. The following reports are provided in delimited format:

Participation Detail Delimited Data

- Site Name | Internal ID | RBRC Site ID | City | State | Last Receipt

Deactivated Sites Delimited Data

- Site Name | Internal ID | RBRC Site ID | City | State | Last Receipt | Deactivation Date

Receipt Summary Delimited Data

- RBRC ID | Site Name | Internal ID | City | State | Total Weight | NiCd | Li-Ion | Ni-MH | Lead | Other | # Cell Phone | lbs Cell Phone

Receipt Detail Delimited Data

- Receipt Date | RBRC ID | Site Name | Internal ID | City | State | Total Weight | NiCd | Li-Ion | Ni-MH | Lead | Other | # Cell Phone | lbs Cell Phone

To export the data from these four reports into Excel, we've included the following instructions:

1. Highlight and copy the header and all the delimited data in a particular section of a report (i.e. Participation Detail Delimited Data, Receipt Summary Delimited Data, etc.).
2. Create a new file in Notepad, paste the clipboard contents, and save the data as <filename>.txt.
3. Open Excel and choose File -> Open and in the file type dropdown, change the option to "All File Types" and find the .txt file you just created.
4. Excel will ask you in an import wizard how you want to import the data. You are importing fixed delimited data and the delimiter is a pipe "|".
5. The data will be formatted automatically, although you can change the fields from numbers to text to dates or whatever you would like.

2009 OUTREACH AND PUBLIC EDUCATION

In December, 2009, Call2Recycle's report showed that New Yorkers had recycled 44,000 pounds of rechargeable batteries through the program in 2009. That's a 13% increase over last year.

Call2Recycle continues the efforts to promote and educate the importance of rechargeable battery and cell phone recycling in NYC and nationwide.

The following pages provide a description of the types of public education and outreach Call2Recycle used in 2009 to promote its rechargeable battery and cell phone recycling program. These materials include public relations efforts, print & online advertisements, collateral, and other activities to educate the public and media about the ability to recycle their rechargeable batteries and cell phones.

E-Marketing

1. On Wednesday, April 15, 2009, David Hirschler of DSNY, in conjunction with Call2Recycle, distributed an email correspondence to all New York City Agency Radio Room, Telecommunications, and IT Staff encouraging their participation in the Call2Recycle program. To support this initiative, Call2Recycle developed a dedicated URL (www.call2recycle.org/nycpa) where email recipients could sign up in the program and order additional collection supplies. This email blast resulted in 172 additional NYC sign-ups.
2. Online Newsletter. Our monthly enewsletter is distributed to subscribers nationwide.
3. Press Release. A NYC press release was issued in December 2009 to national and local New York media representatives.

Media Outreach/Activities/Events

1. Greener Gadgets Conference: On February 27, the Consumer Electronics Association (CEA) held a Greener Gadgets Conference in New York City. Carl Smith, Call2Recycle's CEO, served on the conference's recycling panel, where more than 300 attendees and 70 media outlets were educated about innovative recycling solutions, including the Call2Recycle program.

2. The Buy Recycle Alliance of New York. Northeast Regional Account Manager spoke on a panel about product stewardship on September 15.

3. Sephardic Community Center (Brooklyn, NY) Green Fair. Call2Recycle's Mobile Education Trailer appeared at the Green Fair on September 13 to promote rechargeable battery and cell phone recycling.

4. NY State Association for Reduction, Reuse and Recycling Conference (NYSAR). Call2Recycle exhibited at this conference on November 18-19 to educate New York associations on the importance of battery recycling.

5. Council on the Environment of New York City's (CENYC) Greenmarket. CENYC expended its recycling efforts at select Greenmarket locations by adding collection boxes to recycle old rechargeable batteries and cell phones. Read more about the Greenmarket project.
